Disappointment Grows Over Prisoner Lists

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials, unwilling to accept North Vietnam's latest prisoner list as final, are pressing Communist diplomats for more names than those of seven American servicemen and three civilians acknowledged as captives in Laos.

Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, chief U.S. negotiator of the Vietnam cease-fire agreement and its prisoner provisions, said Thursday night that "it doesn't look to us that it could be complete."

"We are querying them" for further information and more names, Kissinger said in a CBS interview.

The new lists, provided belatedly Thursday, left unexplained the fate of 308 U.S. servicemen and four civilians who have been carried in American records as either prisoners or missing in Laos.

Pentagon and State Department officials expressed shock and disappointment that the lists handed over in Paris five days after the Vietnam ceasefire agreement was signed were so small.

North Vietnam has acknowledged 562 U.S. servicemen and 23 American civilians are in Communist captivity in North Vietnam, South Vietnam and Laos.

Beyond this, the North Vietnamese have reported 55 military men and six civilians died while in prison.

For Indochina as a whole, the North Vietnamese lists supplied since last Saturday have failed to shed any light on what has happened to some 1,300 officers and enlisted men and 22 American civilians.

One of the three civilians reported prisoner in Thursday's list is a Canadian missionary.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim refused to voice any opinion when asked whether the North Vietnamese and their Pathet Lao allies might be holding back more names because U.S. warplanes are still bombing the Ho Chi Minh trail network and other targets in Laos despite the Vietnam cease-fire.

Friedheim said he could not say more than an official Pentagon statement that "the U.S. government will continue its efforts to account for all military personnel who have been carried by the United States as captured and missing."

The total of U.S. servicemen identified as prisoners in Laos actually is nine. It has been established that two servicemen whose names appeared on a list of 555 identified by the Hanoi diplomats last Saturday as captured by the North Vietnamese had been imprisoned in Laos. Friedheim did not name the two.

Some Air Force veterans of the campaign over Laos have said privately they believe as many as 65 to 70 American fliers may have been captured there in nearly nine years of American bombing strikes.

Viet Peace Makes Progress Spring Doesn't Start In February

SAIGON (AP) — The chief delegates of the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong on a peace-keeping military commission met for the first time today to take up an agenda including arrangements for the completion of American troop withdrawals and prisoner exchanges, U.S. officials reported.

A third pressing item on the agenda, the American officials said, was to arrange security for field teams of the International Commission of Control and Supervision who are to police the cease-fire.

The observers from Canada, Poland, Hungary and Indonesia are already three days behind the schedule specified in the cease-fire agreement for setting up regional headquarters in Hue, Da Nang, Pleiku, Phan Thiet, Bien Hoa, Mv Tho and Can Tho.

U.S. officials termed the meeting "significant."

There were other signs that the peacekeeping commissions are getting into action.

U.S. helicopters flew 40 more Viet Cong delegates and 4,000 pounds of their supplies from their district headquarters at Loc Ninh to Saigon to join the joint military commission.

Sunday was reported to be the target for deployment of Communist representatives to the seven regional headquarters where the international supervisory teams will be based.

The international commission sent advance teams today to Pleiku, Da Nang and Hue to check out accommodations, transportation and communication facilities.

Col. Keith MacGregor of the Canadian delegation told newsmen at Pleiku that a full team of about 30 members should be there in two to four days.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the South Vietnamese command, said there were no sustained battles anywhere in the country. But he claimed there were 200 more Communist violations of the cease-fire during the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. today. Many were shelling attacks.

Hien said 524 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong and 37 South Vietnamese were killed during the latest reporting period. He said 185 government troops were wounded and 82 were missing.

Hien conceded that there had been an over-all decrease in fighting in the past two days. But he added that this is only one factor in having an "effective and serious cease-fire." He said teams of the peacekeeping commissions were needed in the field.

Soldier Latest Victim

BELFAST (AP) — A sniper killed a British soldier in Strabane Thursday night as bombs and rioting shook Belfast.

Sgt. William Boardley, 30, was the first soldier to die this year and the 698th confirmed death in three and a half years of Roman Catholic-Protestant warfare in Northern Ireland.

Boardley was shot as he set up a checkpoint against the assassins who have killed four Catholics and a Protestant this week.

In Belfast, a man identified only as a Protestant was critically wounded by gunfire, and authorities attributed the shooting to an assassination gang.

British troops in the capital rounded up about 10 Protestants for questioning about the bombing of a bus Thursday morning that killed a Catholic workman and injured others. The army's search brought Protestant mobs into the streets of East Belfast, setting cars and buses on fire to block the patrols. The troops smashed through with armored bulldozers.

Bombs went off in four Belfast buildings, causing heavy damage but no casualties.

Anonymous telephone callers told local newspapers the Ulster Volunteer Force, an outlawed Protestant vigilante force, was responsible for the bus bombing. But the organization later denied this.

The bus attack, coming on the heels of the early assassinations, heightened expectations of retaliation by the Catholic guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army, and more violence in reply by the Protestant extremists of the 50,000-man Ulster Defense Association.

"The attack on the bus seems to be an act of blatant sectarian violence," one government source commented. "If both sides now escalate their attacks on each other, the whole province will undoubtedly slide into civil war."

Court Ruling Forces Ohio To Speed Pollution Cleanup

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A ruling by a federal appeals court in Washington means lots of work for the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency, a spokesman for the state KPA said.

The ruling was on a suit brought against the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, challenging its decision to grant two-year delays to Ohio and 17 other states for full compliance with mid-1975 clean-air standards.

The suit was filed by the Natural Resources Defense Council, a citizens' environmental group.

Three Ohio cities were affected by the two-year extension. Dayton was allowed two more years to impose transportation controls to curb smog, while Cincinnati and Toledo were allowed two more years to control of stationary pollution sources.

The ruling requires the Ohio EPA to evaluate its program and seek ways to comply with the 1975 requirements, the state spokesman said.

Federal EPA Administrator William Ruckelshaus established the nationwide air quality standards under authority of the 1970 Clean Air Act. States were made responsible for implementation of the standards by May 31, 1975.

Some state plans were approved last May 31, but Ruckelshaus allowed Ohio and the 17 other states extensions to submit parts of the plan affected by the court ruling.

Transportation control plans, including the plan for Dayton, had been due the 15th of this month, but the court order allows a two-month extension for states to now review the proposals.

The court said the extensions could be reinstated under the following conditions:

—The state has submitted a plan for meeting the 1975 deadline.

—The state can show that one or more pollution sources cannot comply with the plan.

—Alternatives have been tried by the state, but the deadline still cannot be met.

—The pollution sources able to comply are held to the 1975 deadline.

—The state imposes "interim measures of control...as are reasonable under the circumstances" on the sources which cannot fully comply.

President Firm On Fund Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top Nixon administration officials are telling angry senators the President has full authority to impound any funds appropriated by Congress and that any move to curb that authority will be fought.

Caspar W. Weinberger, former head of the Office of Management and Budget, faces Senate Labor Committee questioning today on impoundments and sharp cuts in domestic programs as he seeks approval of his nomination to head the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

His replacement at OMB, former defense-industry executive Roy Ash, told the Senate Judiciary Committee Thursday that passage of a bill giving Congress veto power over impoundments would lead to financial chaos.

The Senate votes today on a bill requiring approval of the OMB director, with Ash specifically included.

Meanwhile, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz told the Senate Agriculture Committee Thursday that the American farm community must share the President's effort to trim government spending and halt inflation.

Butz' department has experienced heavy cutbacks and the termination of several programs and he had been scheduled to appear also before a judiciary subcommittee probing the constitutional questions involved in impoundment.

He did not appear. But after Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., subcommittee chairman, threatened him with a subpoena, administration spokesmen said Butz would be available next week.

Agriculture Committee Chairman Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., told Butz he will resist what he called the President's effort to secure an "item veto" not allowed by the Constitution.

'Good Night' Said Passed By Stennis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., remained in "very serious" condition at Walter Reed Army Medical Center today but a spokesman reported he "had a good night."

Stennis, who was shot twice Tuesday night during a robbery in front of his house in Washington, "is now awake, alert and well-oriented," the spokesman, Maj. Frank Garland, said.

Garland said Stennis "continues to show improvement. The vital signs are good."

Stennis is still being fed intravenously, Garland said. The spokesman added that Stennis has not been put back on the respirator that had aided his breathing until Thursday.

Stennis was visited Thursday by his son, John H. Stennis.

The younger Stennis, a member of the Mississippi Legislature, said he felt the assault on his father, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, would not change his attitude toward gun control. Stennis has opposed such measures in the past.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa. (AP) — In tune with tradition and despite heavy overcast and a little rain, famed Punxsutawney Phil saw his shadow at 6:45 a.m. today, forecasting six more weeks of winter weather.

All went according to schedule as a hardy troop of disciples climbed Gobblers Knob just outside of town and watched the furry weather oracle, as the legend goes, climb out of his burrow and fulfill his prediction.

Almost always it is that a shadow-sighting will be made, thus foretelling another six weeks of winter.

Meanwhile in Lancaster County, the Quarryville groundhog saw things differently this morning.

Robert W. Herr, hibernating governor of the Quarryville Lodge of Slumbering Groundhogs, reported their groundhog did not see his shadow, meaning spring is around the corner.

According to tradition, if Punxsutawney Phil—the name bestowed upon the groundhog each year—sees his shadow upon emerging from his burrow Feb. 2, there will be at least six more weeks of winter. Conversely, if he fails to see his shadow, spring supposedly is just around the corner.

The legend was born in 1882, the creation of some card-playing men sitting around a keg of beer frying a groundhog in butter. The idea was fanned by a newspaper editor and since has grown to such proportions that Punxsutawney and its groundhogs are renowned worldwide.

The groundhog's forecast—a spoof of course—is determined weeks in advance every year by the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club.

Almost always it is that a shadow-sighting will be made, thus foretelling another six weeks of winter. This year is no exception.

The 22 members of the club's so-called Inner Circle—local businessmen and civic leaders all—traditionally garb themselves in tails and top hats and climb to the top of the hill known as Gobbler's Knob just before sunup to witness the groundhog's supposed prediction.

The star of the hour is carried along in a cage, double-leashed to keep him from scampering for company more to his liking. He is stuffed gingerly into a hollowed-out tree stump that substitutes for a burrow, then summoned forth as the sun comes up for the great moment of fiction.

Most years the groundhog is so frightened and cold that once inside the stump, he has to be forced out. That requires a tricky combination of leashtugging and prodding with a stick, all done very delicately lest the groundhog get angered.

Three years ago the then Punxsutawney Phil turned on Sam Light, head of the Inner Circle, as light stopped to pull out the rodent barehanded.

"Old Sam got bit like you wouldn't believe," said Bill Carlton, managing editor of the Punxsutawney newspaper. "It took five stitches to stop the bleeding."

Weather

Cloudy and warm today, high near 55, with a 50 per cent chance of light rain or showers. Cloudy and cool tonight, low near 35, with a 20 per cent chance of rain. Partly cloudy and cold tomorrow, high near 40, with a 20 per cent chance of rain. High Thursday, 53; low, 46.

Light now wears heavy leather gloves when performing his part in the ritual.

That was not the only time that things have gone awry.

There was the year Punxsutawney Phil tried again to turn on his masters, frightened them, and was kicked during the confusion. He died on the spot.

"We got through the ceremony somehow anyway," Carlton recalls.

To get around recurrent emergencies, the club now keeps a stuffed groundhog on hand as a backup. He graces the Chamber of Commerce office downtown and is used as a stand-in by photographers during the "preview" of the Groundhog Day ritual atop Gobbler's Knob. Only the hardest take in the real event at sunup.

The hilltop pilgrimage is but the kickoff to Groundhog Day festivities here that carry on into the night. There is a groundhog breakfast for starters — sausage and panckaes are served, not the honored animal — and then there is a nighttime banquet at the local country club. For young people there is a Groundhog Hop at the YMCA.

The town's newspaper traditionally runs a page-one account of the groundhog's makebelieve shadow-sighting, and the local radio station says it has provided 3,000 reports describing the ritual to sister stations around the world.

Chances are, says Carlton, that the groundhog will always sight his shadow, "because any fool knows spring doesn't come in February."

But there was a year when, just for the fun of it, club members decided to try the opposite.

"That night the temperature went to 34 below," said Carlton, "and later it snowed like crazy. It was without a doubt the worst damned winter we'd ever had."

"They aren't likely to try that again," he said.

Official 'Doesn't Remember' Hiding Ellsberg Evidence

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pleading a bad memory, a Defense Department official has refused to confirm or deny the sworn word of a former staff member that they had orders to remove from government files reports which could exonerate Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo, the defendants in the Pentagon papers case.

Charles Hinkle, director of the Defense Department's Office of Security Review, gave these answers to most questions Thursday while testifying at the Pentagon papers trial: "I have no recollection," "I don't recall" and "I can only say I don't recollect."

Retired Air Force Lt. Col. Edward A. Miller had just finished testifying that Hinkle personally told him in 1971 that a report by Miller which would harm the government case against Ellsberg and Russo had been ordered "removed from files" in the Office of Security Review. At the time, Miller was an analyst in the office. Miller testified that Hinkle wrote a memorandum on the incident and filed it.

But Hinkle said he couldn't remember the conversation or the memo.

He also testified that he could not remember whether Miller was assigned to do a special study of the Pentagon papers, or that he read any of the study, or whether, in his 19 years in the office, he was ever ordered to suppress any papers.

His testimony, with jurors absent from court, came during the fourth day of hearings by U.S. Dist. Court Judge Matt Byrne, who is investigating whether the government violated a court order issued last spring and withheld important documents which could help the defense. He has already revealed that 13 studies surrendered by the government during the past two weeks are defense evidence.

Ellsberg, 41, and Russo, 36, are charged with espionage, conspiracy and theft in connection with the release to news media in 1971 of the top secret Pentagon history of the Vietnam war. The government has been seeking to show that the release could have harmed national defense and helped an enemy.

Most Of Johnson Estate Goes To Lynda Bird, Luci

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson's will, signed six months before he died, leaves the bulk of his estate to his two daughters and names his widow as executor.

There was nothing in the will to indicate the size of Johnson's estate.

Mrs. Johnson was left all of the former president's personal property and his interest in their household items. Seventeen relatives, friends and employees received individual bequests totaling $81,000.

Johnson's will, dated July 25, 1972, was filed for probate Thursday. He died Jan. 22.

Johnson willed to the LBJ Library at the University of Texas "all of my presidential and other papers, documents, historical materials, mementos, objects of art and other memorabilia, including but not limited to books, motion pictures, still pictures and sound records."

He left $25,000 to LBJ Ranch foreman Dale Malechek and his wife.

Next in size among the individual bequests was $10,000 to a sister, Lucia Alexander of Fort Worth.

Johnson gave about 200 acres of the LBJ ranch to the National Park Service recently for an addition to the LBJ national historic site.

Tom Johnson, no kin but a family spokesman, also issued a statement saying that 3,444 acres of the ranch holdings were sold by Johnson after he left the White House to Frates Properties, Inc., of Tulsa, Okla. The spokesman added that Mrs. Johnson would continue living at the ranch.

In the will, the former president also issued instructions that "all of the rest and residue of my estate" be divided into two equal trusts for his daughters, Lynda Robb and Luci Nugent.

Mrs. Johnson was named to serve as trustee, parceling out income from the trusts to the daughters and their children according to her "absolute and sole discretion."

Each daughter's trust terminates when she reaches age 30, and she will acquire full possession, according to the terms of the will.

Accidents Injure Two

Two accidents, investigated Thursday evening by the local Highway Patrol, occurred at 4:50 p.m. in separate areas of Pickaway County.

A 16-year-old Circleville youth was injured slightly in the one crash, which occurred along southbound Route 23 just north of 762. Jeffrey E. Knece, 162 Third Ave., noted he was driving in the right lane when a passing car pulled from the passing lane in front of him, forcing him of the road. The youth's auto ended up in a cornfield and had to be towed away.

Investigating officer was Ptl. Al Svetek.

In the county's western corner, about a mile south of the Franklin County line, on Route 62, Ptl. James Riggelman investigated a two car crash caused when James Pendell, 42, of Bloomingburg, was unable to stop for the car ahead, driven by 59-year-old Dennis Ward, of Mt. Sterling. Ptl. Riggelman noted that Ward was slowing for a car ahead making a right turn when his car was struck in the rear. Ward reported minor injuries as a result of the collision.

Court Reports Month's Activity

In January, 52 cases were filed in the Common Pleas Court.

Those 52 included five cases stemming from incidents involving personal injury, 13 matters of criminal charges, 29 in the area of domestic relations and five others. With 261 already docketed case, they brought to 313 the number of cases awaiting decision in the court.

During the 31 days of January, the court terminated 57 cases. Eight of these were civil actions for personal injury, one settled by jury trial. One case was settled under a Workmen's Compensation appeal.

The court heard six criminal matters and settled four temporarily because the accused was unavailable for trial. Thirty of the cases involved domestic relations, 19 of which were dismissed and the remaining 11 granted. Eight other cases were settled.

Sara Dresbach, Clerk of Courts, noted that no new appeals were filed in the district court docket leaving five open cases still remaining.

Nixon And Heath Continue Exhaustive Summit Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and British Prime Minister Edward Heath fly to Camp David today to conclude what has been described by both sides as the most exhaustive summit meeting of an American president and an allied leader.

Nixon and Heath were to leave for the presidential retreat in the Maryland mountains after a lunch with British Ambassador Lord Cromer at his residence.

While spokesmen will not discuss the substance of the talks, they say topics covered since Heath's arrival Thursday have included major international issues with a focus on forthcoming monetary and trade talks.

Nixon and Heath will be joined at Camp David by Henry Kissinger, Nixon's foreign policy adviser, and by Sir Burke Trend, secretary to the British cabinet.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Sir Alec DouglasHume, Britain's secretary of state for foreign affairs, will join the two leaders later for what has been described as a working dinner before they return to Washington about 10 p.m. EST.

Nixon and Heath met three times Thursday: In a 90-minute morning session, two hours in the afternoon along with Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, and for a black-tie state dinner at the White House.

Also Thursday afternoon, Rogers and Sir Alec met for five hours at the State Department.

Spokesmen declined to give any details of the talks, but said the two leaders talked about the post-Vietnam conflict era, East-West relations and, with Shultz present, trade questions.

Rogers and Hume discussed East-West conferences on European security and troop withdrawals from Central Europe, in addition to the Middle East.

At the dinner, President Nixon praised Heath as a man who has made "gutsy decisions" in leading his country into the European Common Market.

Command Center Ready For Return Of POWs

CLARK AIR BASE. Philippines (AP) — Twenty phones lined up on the L-shaped desk. A wall clock is set to Hanoi time. Eight colonels sit side by side.

This is the nerve center of Operation Homecoming, the elaborate project planned for three years down to the smallest detail to bring home the American POWs in Indochina.

It is off limits because of tight security surrounding the homecoming operation. But newsmen were taken on a tour today of the building on Clark Air Base that houses the task force, officially known as the Joint Command Processing Center.

"This is the focal point of all the activity," said Air Force Col. H.A. Davis of Syracuse, N.Y., commander of the task force.

Davis had in front of him a dull-red direct telephone to Cincpac, the commander in chief Pacific.

"When we get the order to go from Cincpac, then we'll dispatch the hospital planes to Hanoi to make the pickup," he said.

Other phones will connect with the aircraft. When they begin their three-hour, 900-mile journey back to Clark from Hanoi, the base will be put on final alert. Davis said he does not know when that will be.

"We are just waiting here on a 24-hour alert," he said.

With Davis in the nerve center are colonels or the equivalent rank from all branches of the services. Watching the interests of U.S. Army POWs will be Col. James A. Murphy, San Antonio, Tex. Col. Harvey T. Jacolick of Schenectady, N.Y., represents the Air Force. Col. John W. Clayborne of McGraws, W.Va., represents the Marines, and Capt. Harold Griffith of Port Jefferson N.Y., the Navy.

Several other colonels are on the task force staff. In all, 2,000 men have gathered here to help in the release.

Large wall charts detail procedures the POWs will go through after their arrival at Clark. The name of each returnee will be written on the chart. Each stage of his processing will be checked off — medical examination, uniform measurements, debriefing, pay.

When all items have been checked, the POW will be ready for the next stage of his journey to freedom — a ride in a C141 Starlifter from Clark to Travis Air Force Base in California.

"Some may clear in two or three days; others will be here longer to take care of their medical needs," Davis said.

One item on the charts reads "NOK call," military jargon for the next-of-kin telephone call the POWs will be permitted to make to their immediate families in the United States.

Asked about the subject of POW briefings, Davis said: "We are interested only in information the men will have on the condition of other POWs, and facts they might have learned on the dead and missing. We are reaching for a total accounting of all POWs."

Debriefing on other topics will take place in the United States, he added.

A total of 380 specially trained military escort officers have arrived at Clark. They will be assigned individually to each POW. These escorts will play the most important role in the initial phase of Operation Homecoming, debriefing the POWs, giving guidance and advice and accompanying them back to the United States.

Common Bible Finally Complete

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A common Bible, the long-cherished dream of the Christian unity movement, is now complete.

To be published in the United States this spring, it has approval of Protestant, Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox leaders in this country, in Europe and Asia.

It is the result of "vast collaboration," Pope Paul VI said a few days ago when presented with a copy in Rome.

Ever since the 16th century breakup of the church, contrasting versions of the Bible have been a major cause of edginess among the separate branches of the faith, particularly among ordinary members.

"They use a different Bible," went the usual expression of the presumably impenetrable wall of division, with little awareness how slightly the Bibles really differed.

But increasingly in recent times, that wall has been breached with joint Bible research, joint commentaries and joint regional editions of Scripture, a sequence culminating now with the broad-scale issuance of the new mutually approved volume.

Its cover reads, "Revised Standard Version Common Bible."

An international ecumenical group, the RSV Bible Committee, now headed by the Rev. Dr. Herbert G. May, of Ohio's Oberlin College, has worked out the presentation and format of the new Bible.

It consists of the RSV Old

Testament, a translation produced by an inter-Protestant committee in 1952, a 1971 revised edition of the RSV New Testament, and seven intermediary books, known as "Deuterocanonical" by Catholics and as the "Apocrypha" by Protestants.

Seven publishing companies have been licensed to print the volume, which came out Jan. 21 in Great Britain, and is to be issued in this country April 2.

Though the basic translating was done 20 years ago by the National Council's inter-Protestant group, it now also represents Catholic and Orthodox scholars, and the texts now have across-the-board endorsement, including seven midsection books previously omitted in some cases.

These books, a cause of controversy as far back as the 4th century, have been a main difference about the Bible since the 16th century Protestant Reformation led by Martin Luther, although they constitute only a tiny fraction of the Bible.

While the Protestant reformers excluded the books from the "canon" of inspired Scripture, they nevertheless were included in Protestant Bibles of that era in between the 39 Old Testament books and the 27 New Testament books.

They also originally were included in the King James version of the Bible of 1611, long the principal Protestant version until production of the RSV.

PUCO Chief Gets Raise By Quitting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Henry W. Eckhart, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, resigned and was appointed to the agency again today by Gov. John J. Gilligan.

At the same time, Gov. Gilligan named Sally W. Bloomfield of Columbus to the PUCO.

Both will receive $25,168 per year. Both are Democrats.

Eckhart was re-appointed to a new six-year term, replacing Elmer W. Keller, whose term expired.

Mrs. Bloomfield, 29, now assistant to the PUCO, will serve the remaining four years of Eckhart's term.

"Henry Eckhart's outstanding performance these past two years has impressed me to the point that I want to give him this additional opportunity to serve," Gilligan said at a news conference.

Gilligan noted the reappointment would permit Eckhart to receive a salary increase.

Mrs. Hugo Black Robbed By Youth

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — Mrs. Hugo L. Black has been robbed of $12 by a young man who forced his way into the home of the widow of the late Supreme Court justice at knifepoint, police report.

Mrs. Black was unharmed; the assailant escaped.

She told police she had just returned from a shopping trip Tuesday when her doorbell rang.

When she opened the door, a man holding a knife and wearing cheesecloth over his face pushed in and told her, "Give me your money. All I want is your money."

Polar Bear Probe

Polar bears are among the most independent of the wild creatures anywhere on this planet. They frequently roam thousands of miles over ice floes in a nomadic existence reminiscent of some of the earlier Indian tribes.

A big difference is that the polar bear prefers to travel alone, a beast in conflict with some of nature's harshest elements.

Until recent years, no one paid much attention to the polar bear. A few hardy hunters ventured north for one of the most treasured trophies. Eskimos continued their centuries-old tradition of relying on the bear for part of their subsistence. Most other persons ignored the creature which weighs more than 1,000 pounds and measures 8 to 10 feet in length.

Then came the airplane hunter, a new breed of sportsman. Then officials from Alaska, Norway, Canada and the Soviet Union suddenly realized they knew little about the polar bear, in particular how numerous he is and what the growth in trophy kills could do to the population.

So the solitary polar bear finds many peaceful humans invading his domicile, plotting his movements, counting his numbers and shooting him with a painless drug so he may be tagged to permit easier surveillance of his activities. Even the frozen wastes of the North Pole are no longer safe from the invasion of strange creatures from another world.

Peace At Training Base

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

FORT RUCKER, Ala. (KFS)—At the height of the Vietnamese War they were sending helicopter pilots out of this training base by the hundreds every few weeks. Now it is down to 12 for each 20 weeks and quality has replaced quantity.

Since "rotary wing" pilot candidates have always been volunteers, which implies a mixture of the positive qualities of dedication, aspiration and curiosity, this military post of 17,500 is perhaps not the place to ask questions about the supposed decline in Army morale. Even so it was interesting to probe for attitudes as the cease-fire agreement was bringing an end to a conflict that, with considerable truth, has been called the "helicopter war."

I wanted to know a couple of things in particular. One: What is it like to seek status in an elite part of the armed forces at a time when civilian elites—professors, commentators, etc.—have been taking it out on the "military-industrial complex" and on soldiering in general? Two: What can be the future for the helicopter, a slow-moving craft, in wars that might engage sophisticated air weapons on both sides in non-jungle terrain?

The answer to the first question was bitter-sweet. I talked with a major and three captains, all with Vietnam tours behind them, who had come to helicopter after experience in armor, rural pacification, and other things. I also talked with warrant-officer candidates for pilot certification. They made no apologies for their choice of occupation. One said he took particular pride in going in for helicopter because he wanted to help maintain his homeland "in a state of peace after seeing it in a state of war." Others expressed a rather stoical indifference to civilian attitudes. A second one, who had interrupted his military career to go back to college after service in Vietnam, told of professors who gave him "a grade below what he had earned" simply because of academic prejudice against the war or anyone connected with it. Another told of taking eight different media versions of a battle he had witnessed to show to participants in that battle.

None of the participants recognized truth in what they read. Some correspondents and commentators, however, got fair marks, Howard K.

Smith of ABC beginning one of them. Despite the exceptions, one had the feeling that both the press and the academics have a lot to live down with soldiers because of the performance of some of their representatives during the war period.

Most of the helicopter trainees currently at Fort Rucker had been ticketed for Vietnam. Now, suddenly, they are not going there. Some have new orders for Korea and for Germany. Others are waiting to be assigned. Single men who had requested service with the Cobra helicopter gunships in Vietnam professed a mingled feeling of relief and disappointment. Naturally, they welcomed peace. But they felt deprived of the use of a new weapon whose supporting role promised to make the life of a "grunt" on the ground much less hazardous.

The married and engaged men who had suddenly been saved from Vietnam duty had no regrets whatsoever.

Regardless of the tactical use of the helicopter in future wars in, say, the open deserts of the Middle East or in crowded Europe, the feeling is that it has proved itself for good in medical evacuation, or "Medivac." The casualties in Vietnam were far below those in World War II, or even in Korea, because the helicopter provided speed in getting a man from battlefield to hospital. Given effective air cover, Medivac is here to stay as a helicopter mission.

As for tactical training for battle in the desert or in non-jungle temperate zone areas between big powers with equally matched fighter-bomber planes, this is something that Fort Rucker graduates have yet to experience. The helicopter is slow, but it can hug the earth, which argues that it will still have its uses in any war.

Meanwhile, there is the exhilaration in handling equipment that represents a quarter of a million dollars.

"Where else," I was asked, "can a young fellow of 21 have such responsibility? In civilian life you don't get it in a corporation until you are 40 years old."

When Army life offers such an appeal it could be the last refuge for the individualist, particularly when the individual is encouraged to go back to school, as all Army officers are, at every possible opportunity.

NEW YORK (AP) — You can detect in President Nixon's economic report to Congress the satisfaction of a man who feels he has wrestled some very big economic problems and now has them nearly tamed and responsive to his will.

While the general prediction is that it will be another "very good" year, he said, "I believe it can be a great year." And in the spirit of things he has set some goals that critics might think quite optimistic.

But it is clear too that he is extremely wary that these very same problems, inflation especially, might challenge his leadership. It can be a great year, he said, only if we are prudent. By implication: more restraint, less self-indulgence.

These are some of the pocketbook goals the President has set:

—A continued reduction in the inflation rate to around 3 per cent, averaged out for the year, and a rate of even less than that during the final months of 1973.

This is a critical goal and one to watch all year long. Many private economists feel the rate will be 3.5 per cent or above. Moreover, they fear it might be rising rather than falling as the year progresses.

It also is a goal that can be reached only by a bumpy road. Food is expected to make headlines in the next few weeks as record-high farm prices arrive at the checkout counter. It won't seem like inflation is receding.

The administration concedes it has set its sights high, and it appears to be relying both on the self-discipline of producers and consumers in exercising restraint, and the discipline of the big stick it hasn't used so far.

Less optimism is shown in regard to employment. It is even suggested that the level of idleness that must be tolerated has been raised from 4 per cent of the work force to 4.5 per cent, at least for 1973.

The job goal is for a jobless rate of about 4.5 per cent by late in the year, compared with 5.6 per cent last year and 5.9 per cent in 1971. The rate last year fell through the months to a 5.1 per cent level in December.

While an earlier figure of 4 per cent had been set as the goal, without a specific date for achieving it, the administration is seemingly wary that to seek that level too quickly might force prices higher.

Economically, full employment is not full employment. It is the rate of joblessness that can be supported without producing shortages of skill that, in turn, push up labor costs and then prices.

Millions of Americans will generally be out of work at any one time: unable to work, between jobs, laid off and looking, unskilled and otherwise idle.

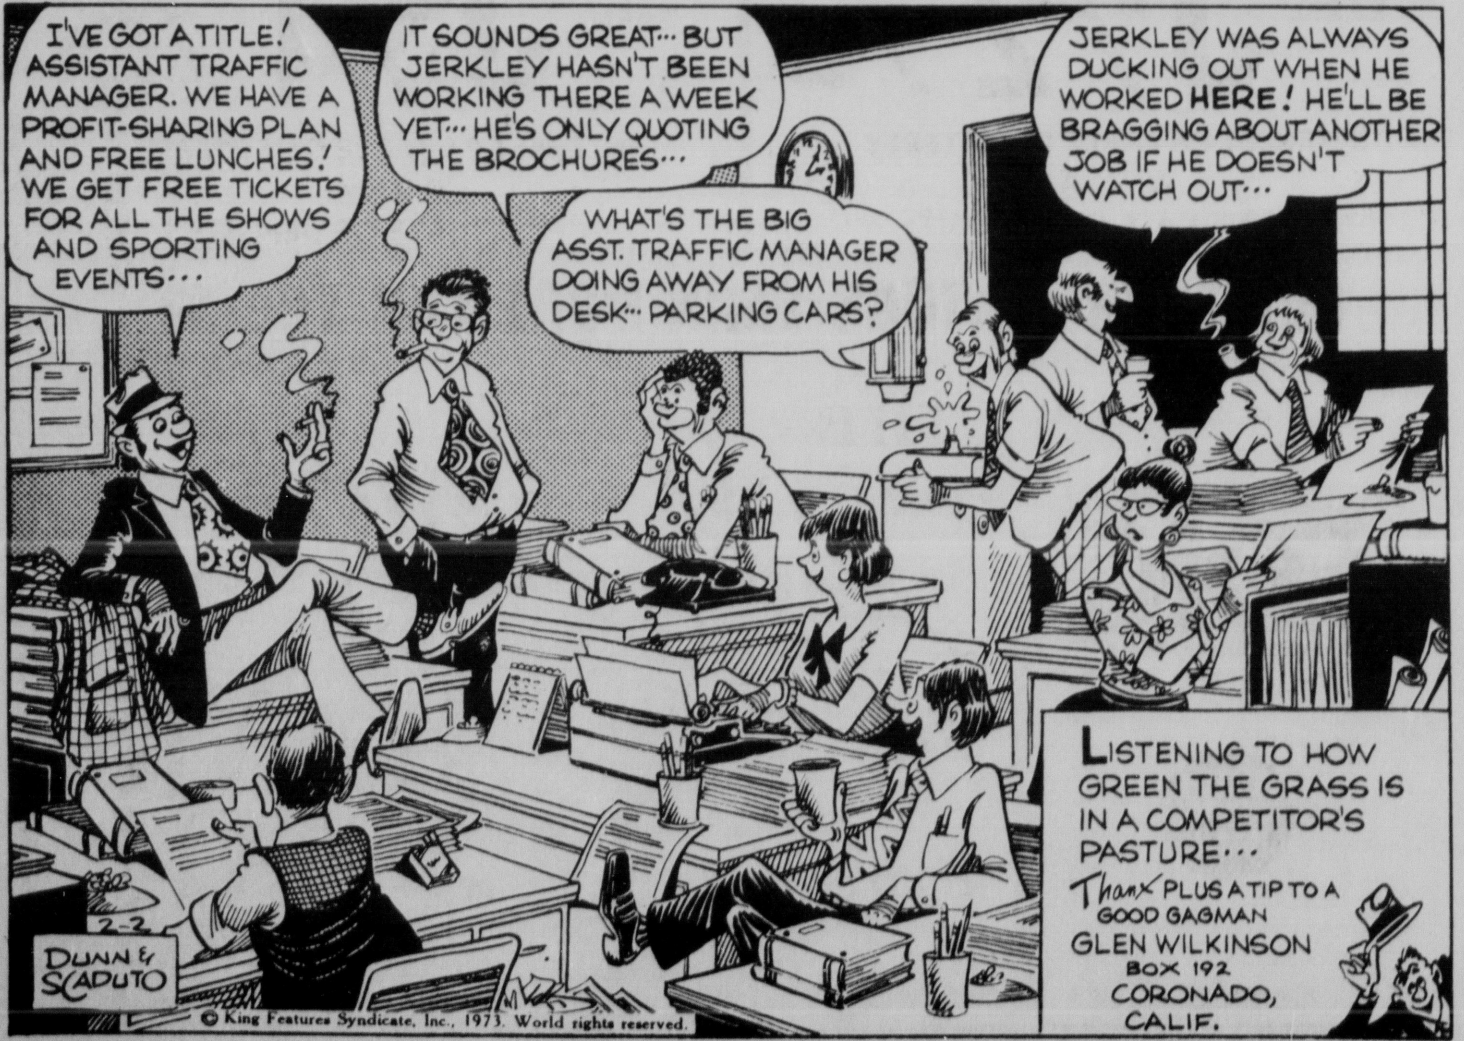

—Incomes are projected to rise sharply in 1973. This doesn't mean that bigger pay raises are forthcoming, but it does mean that people will have more money to spend because inflation will be reduced.

In addition, billions of dollars in tax refunds already are beginning to filter back to those who had too much money withheld during 1972. Billions of dollars is on its way back to consumers.

—Good prospects are foreseen also for homebuyers, as more than 2 million units become available for the third straight year. Add to that figure a rough total of one-half million mobile homes and you have a boom.

If that level is achieved it will tend to keep prices from rising sharply as in the previous two years, when there was a larger backlog of unsatisfied demand. But continued increases in lumber prices and slightly higher mortgage rates might offset those gains.

Polar Bear Probe

Polar bears are among the most independent of the wild creatures anywhere on this planet. They frequently roam thousands of miles over ice floes in a nomadic existence reminiscent of some of the earlier Indian tribes.

A big difference is that the polar bear prefers to travel alone, a beast in conflict with some of nature's harshest elements.

Until recent years, no one paid much attention to the polar bear. A few hardy hunters ventured north for one of the most treasured trophies. Eskimos continued their centuries-old tradition of relying on the bear for part of their subsistence. Most other persons ignored the creature which weighs more than 1,000 pounds and measures 8 to 10 feet in length.

Then came the airplane hunter, a new breed of sportsman. Then officials from Alaska, Norway, Canada and the Soviet Union suddenly realized they knew little about the polar bear, in particular how numerous he is and what the growth in trophy kills could do to the population.

So the solitary polar bear finds many peaceful humans invading his domicile, plotting his movements, counting his numbers and shooting him with a painless drug so he may be tagged to permit easier surveillance of his activities. Even the frozen wastes of the North Pole are no longer safe from the invasion of strange creatures from another world.

Peace At Training Base

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

FORT RUCKER, Ala. (KFS)—At the height of the Vietnamese War they were sending helicopter pilots out of this training base by the hundreds every few weeks. Now it is down to 12 for each 20 weeks and quality has replaced quantity.

Since "rotary wing" pilot candidates have always been volunteers, which implies a mixture of the positive qualities of dedication, aspiration and curiosity, this military post of 17,500 is perhaps not the place to ask questions about the supposed decline in Army morale. Even so it was interesting to probe for attitudes as the cease-fire agreement was bringing an end to a conflict that, with considerable truth, has been called the "helicopter war."

I wanted to know a couple of things in particular. One: What is it like to seek status in an elite part of the armed forces at a time when civilian elites—professors, commentators, etc.—have been taking it out on the "military-industrial complex" and on soldiering in general? Two: What can be the future for the helicopter, a slow-moving, craft, in wars that might engage sophisticated air weapons on both sides in non-jungle terrain?

The answer to the first question was bitter-sweet. I talked with a major and three captains, all with Vietnam tours behind them, who had come to helicopter after experience in armor, rural pacification, and other things. I also talked with warrant-officer candidates for pilot certification. They made no apologies for their choice of occupation. One said he took particular pride in going in for helicopter because he wanted to help maintain his homeland "in a state of peace after seeing it in a state of war." Others expressed a rather stoical indifference to civilian attitudes. A second one, who had interrupted his military career to go back to college after service in Vietnam, told of professors who gave him "a grade below what he had earned" simply because of academic prejudice against the war or anyone connected with it. Another told of taking eight different media versions of a battle he had witnessed to show to participants in that battle.

None of the participants recognized truth in what they read. Some correspondents and commentators, however, got fair marks, Howard K.

Smith of ABC beginning one of them. Despite the exceptions, one had the feeling that both the press and the academics have a lot to live down with soldiers because of the performance of some of their representatives during the war period.

Most of the helicopter trainees currently at Fort Rucker had been ticketed for Vietnam. Now, suddenly, they are not going there. Some have new orders for Korea and for Germany. Others are waiting to be assigned. Single men who had requested service with the Cobra helicopter gunships in Vietnam professed a mingled feeling of relief and disappointment. Naturally, they welcomed peace. But they felt deprived of the opportunity of pioneering the use of a new weapon whose supporting role promised to make the life of a "grunt" on the ground much less hazardous.

The married and engaged men who had suddenly been saved from Vietnam duty had no regrets whatsoever. Regardless of the tactical use of the helicopter in future wars in, say, the open deserts of the Middle East or in crowded Europe, the feeling is that it has proved itself for good in medical evacuation, or "Medivac." The casualties in Vietnam were far below those in World War II, or even in Korea, because the helicopter provided speed in getting a man from battlefield to hospital. Given effective air cover, Medivac is here to stay as a helicopter mission.

As for tactical training for battle in the desert or in non-jungle temperate zone areas between big powers with equally matched fighter-bomber planes, this is something that Fort Rucker graduates have yet to experience. The helicopter is slow, but it can hug the earth, which argues that it will still have its uses in any war.

Meanwhile, there is the exhilaration in handling equipment that represents a quarter of a million dollars.

"Where else," I was asked, "can a young fellow of 21 have such responsibility? In civilian life you don't get it in a corporation until you are 40 years old."

When Army life offers such an appeal it could be the last refuge for the individualist, particularly when the individual is encouraged to go back to school, as all Army officers are, at every possible opportunity.

A gila monster can live for several months without eating a thing by absorbing fat which was stored up in its tail while food was plentiful.

Three members of my family have Parkinson's disease. Is it possible that this disease is inherited? Would it be important that they all work in anthracite coal mines?

Mr. J. N., W. Va.

Dear Mr. N.:

As far as I know, there is no familial or hereditary factor in the production of Parkinson's disease. Also known as paralysis agitans, or shaking palsy, this condition most commonly occurs after encephalitis or inflammation of the brain.

Sometimes it occurs in the middle-aged and in the elderly without any known reason. Much is known about the disease from the clinical point of view because the appearance of the patient is so characteristic.

Besides a tremor of the fingers, there is often a fixed facial expression. The eyes often do not blink and there is a staring attitude which quickly identifies or suggests Parkinson's disease.

Remarkable benefits have been obtained in many cases with the drug L-dopa.

The fact that those members of your family who are affected with this disease work in coal mines may be of great importance. It is well known that this condition may result from chronic exposure and poisoning with carbon monoxide. The heavy metal manganese and other related metals are known to be toxic and can also produce a condition closely resembling Parkinson's Diseases.

Here may lie the relationship. Certainly the owners of the mine and the doctors associated with it should be told of this familial problem.

If that level is achieved it will tend to keep prices from rising sharply as in the previous two years, when there was a larger backlog of unsatisfied demand. But continued increases in lumber prices and slightly higher mortgage rates might offset those gains.

Man Re-Arrested; Police Red-Faced

BALTIMORE (AP) — Police who arrested a 24-year-old man on larceny by trick charges last week have re-arrested the man and added another charge, "the flim-flam of us."

Detectives said after Ricardo G. Palen was re-arrested Tuesday that after his first arrest last Wednesday he had offered to stage a heroin purchase for them.

Ohio Farmers Fear Nixon Abandoning Price Supports

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Significant changes made by the Nixon administration recently in loan and subsidy programs for farmers have caused some Ohio farm officials to express concern.

The changes apparently are aimed at getting rid of artificial restraints on farm production, but some officials in the state fear it's a move to wean farmers from federal price supports.

According to officials of the U.S. Agriculture Department in Columbus, the changes are in response to the hikes in food prices. They said these boosts have raised national farm income since 1968 by 39 per cent.

Oh' State Grange official James Roz. says he believes the moves are not just an administration response to inflation. He says he believes the administration will not wish to bring back the price supports being undercut now, regardless of whether there is a deterioration of the market.

Ross says "We're not completely aligned with the belief that supply and demand can protect farm income." He feels a realistic approach to quotas of some kind is necessary.

Dave Urmston, deputy state agriculture director, says he believes there is some truth to suggestions that the administration is trying to get completely out of the price support business. But he says, "I have no way to substantiate that..."

The executive secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau, C. William Swank, said he did not have any reason to believe the Nixon administration was getting ready to abandon the farmer.

He said he thought "they want to show the public that they're being responsive to the public demand for control of food prices."

But Swank added, if the administration tries to bring land back into production and ease off on the farm programs and "we suddenly have surplus food again, we have a right to be very unhappy about it."

Swank also said that he does not anticipate substantial changes in current farm legislation when a new bill hits Congress later this year.

He said if basically the same program is not put back "on the books...we'll be highly critical and we'll go to Washington and make as strong a case as we can."

The case was tried in the court of U.S. District Court Judge Ben C. Connally. It involved Miguel Jimenez Orosco, a McAllen taxi driver charged with possession of 134 pounds of marijuana.

The case reached the jury Tuesday at 3:34 p.m. The jurors deliberated until 6:15 p.m. without reaching a verdict. When they resumed Wednesday at 9 a.m., it took them 30 minutes to decide Orosco was innocent.

Judge Connally told them that in 20 years on the bench he had never seen "a more stupid, illogical and ill-advised verdict."

He said there was no evidence on which the accused could have been found innocent. Orosco admitted in his own testimony "every element of the offense," the judge said.

Connally told the jurors a verdict such as the one they reached "is responsible, in my judgment, for the increasing crime rate everywhere."

Ohio Farmers Fear Nixon Abandoning Price Supports

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Significant changes made by the Nixon administration recently in loan and subsidy programs for farmers have caused some Ohio farm officials to express concern.

The changes apparently are aimed at getting rid of artificial restraints on farm production, but some officials in the state fear it's a move to wean farmers from federal price supports.

According to officials of the U.S. Agriculture Department in Columbus, the changes are in response to the hikes in food prices. They said these boosts have raised national farm income since 1968 by 39 per cent.

Ohio State Grange official James Roz says he believes the moves are not just an administration response to inflation. He says he believes the administration will not wish to bring back the price supports being undercut now, regardless of whether there is a deterioration of the market.

Ross says "We're not completely aligned with the belief that supply and demand can protect farm income." He feels a realistic approach to quotas of some kind is necessary.

Dave Urmston, deputy state agriculture director, says he believes there is some truth to suggestions that the administration is trying to get completely out of the price support business. But he says, "I have no way to substantiate that."

The executive secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau, C. William Swank, said he did not have any reason to believe the Nixon administration was getting ready to abandon the farmer.

He said he thought "they want to show the public that they're being responsive to the public demand for control of food prices."

But Swank added, if the administration tries to bring land back

Judge Rips Jury Verdict As 'Stupid'

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — A federal judge here became so infuriated after jurors acquitted a man charged with possession of marijuana that he told the ten men and two women on the jury they would never again serve in his court.

The case was tried in the court of U.S. District Court Judge Ben C. Connally. It involved Miguel Jimenez Orosco, a McAllen taxi driver charged with possession of 134 pounds of marijuana.

The case reached the jury Tuesday at 3:34 p.m. The jurors deliberated until 6:15 p.m. without reaching a verdict. When they resumed Wednesday at 9 a.m., it took them 30 minutes to decide Orosco was innocent.

Judge Connally told them that in 20 years on the bench he had never seen "a more stupid, illogical and ill-advised verdict."

He said there was no evidence on which the accused could have been found innocent. Orosco admitted in his own testimony "every element of the offense," the judge said.

Connally told the jurors a verdict such as the one they reached "is responsible, in my judgment, for the increasing crime rate everywhere."

Reformatory Strike Still On

MARYSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Striking inmates at the Ohio Reformatory for Women presented their complaints to state Corrections Chief Bennett Cooper Thursday, but none of the grievances was resolved.

A Corrections Department spokesman said Cooper probably would meet again with leaders of the work stoppage, involving some 95 women in two of the institution's six cottages.

Reasons for the strike remained unclear, the spokesman said. The protest was not organized, he said, and the grievances listed were ambiguous.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Three Strikes, He's Out!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 29-year-old woman who has been married and divorced three times in the last 10 years. You will probably say what everybody else says when you find out I married and divorced the same man all three times.

Our last divorce became final three weeks ago, and now Mike is begging me to marry him again. We have no children and we don't want any. I really love the guy, Abby, but the only time he is good to me is when we're divorced. Mike is a wonderful lover, but he's a rotten husband. When we're man and wife he drinks, runs around, and stays out late. I never know where he is or who he's with, which drives me up a wall.

If you knew how much we've spent on lawyers you would think we were out of our minds. I know there will never be any other man for me, but I know if I marry Mike again he'll go back to his old mean, abusive ways. Can you help me?

THREE-TIME LOSER

DEAR LOSER: Three strikes and a man is OUT, no matter how good he pitches. Some men are great to date but not to mate, and Mike could be one of them.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 21, and she shares an apartment with another girl. Until she went to college she was very considerate, and since she was an only child we were a very close family.

Although she was invited, she did not spend Christmas, Thanksgiving, Mother's Day, or Father's Day with us. She sent cards, but she spent those special days with her boy friend and his parents.

Naturally, I was upset, and when I confronted her she said there are 365 days a year to love us, and why should she give up these particular days? She says times have changed and I am square. Am I?

VERY HURT

DEAR HURT: No, but don't make an issue of it. I can understand your being "hurt," but if you continue to make her feel guilty, you may see even less of her.

DEAR ABBY: My brother, Bob, was adopted by my family when he was a small baby. Bob is now over legal age, and was just informed that his real mother is an Indian living in Alaska and he is getting money from her oil rights.

Bob says it is all like a dream, because he never knew he was adopted. He is trying to make up his mind whether to go to Alaska to collect the money. He doesn't know what to say to his mother, who is still living, because he has always considered the mother who raised him his one and only mother.

Would you ask your readers how adopted children and real mothers feel after meeting each other after being separated for over 20 years? Is it a good experience or a bad one?

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: I would guess it's almost always a tearful joyous reunion, but I'll ask, Readers?

DEAR ABBY: Here in Iowa the winters are pretty cold, so my sisters and I have made a habit of putting out food for the squirrels, birds and rabbits. Today, we had an especially heavy snowfall so we put out a little extra food for the animals and birds.

Today, we saw a little squirrel who had been in our neighborhood for as long as we can remember go into a neighbor's yard and start to eat out of a bird feeder. Abby, this neighbor came out of the house with a shotgun and with one shot KILLED that little hungry squirrel while he was eating! It just made us sick.

Please print this and tell people if they don't want animals in their yard to just chase them away. You can't teach a dead animal anything. And for those of you who do help these little creatures in the winter when food is hard to come by, God bless you.

Love and peace to you, Abby. Please don't use our names, sign us, 18, 16 AND 15 IN WATERLOO

DEAR 18, 16 AND 15: And love and peace to you, too! I'm sorry you won't allow me to disclose your names. You are three beautiful sisters.

4 Arrested In Airborne Marijuana Raid

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — State narcotics agents Thursday arrested four men and confiscated 400 to 500 pounds of marijuana after conducting a surveillance of a small aircraft.

Abents said two men were arrested when the plane was unloaded in an isolated area near Safford, Ariz. They were identified as Gregory Albert Sandoval, 24, of Los Angeles and Wayne Thomas Barn, 25, of Dayton, Ohio.

The aircraft was then followed to Casa Grande, Ariz., where it landed. Ralph Eerwin Dribble, 26, of Whittier, Calif. and Louis Austin O'Jibway, 26, of Mammoth Lake, Calif. were arrested at that time, officers said.

The Flagstaff, Ariz., division of the agency had received information that a Cessna aircraft located in Flagstaff allegedly was involved in narcotics traffic.

Company Chosen To Operate Transit

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — ATE Management and Service Co., of Cincinnati, has been chosen to operate Cincinnati Transit, Inc., once the city buys it.

ATE was selected by the Southwestern Ohio Regional Transit Authority (SORTA) Thursday. SORTA is a regional authority set up to accept federal funds to help the city purchase the firm for $6.8 million.

Pen Co. Representative Speaker For Rotary

PEN HISTORY — Bill Clifton, right, welcomes Don Miller, a representative of the Parker Pen Co. who spoke Thursday at the regular Rotary meeting. Miller related some background facts on writing instruments and told of the discovery of the ball point pen in Argentina in 1946.

Circleville Rotarians were introduced to the origin of writing instruments Thursday when Bill Clifton brought a representative of the Parker Pen Co. to the meeting.

Don Miller presented information on the use of tools for writing and told of the origin of ball point pens in Argentina in 1946. He also showed a film on specialty advertising and the many applications of it which industries use.

The club is promoting a Souvenir and Momento Auction as a project to raise money for Brooks Yates School and crippled children. The event is slated March 29. Each Rotary member is to provide something of some worth to be sold at the auction.

Annual election of officers was held at this meeting. Winning offices were: Robert W. Wood, president, W.E. Christopher, first vice president; Earl Palm, second vice president; Rev. Charles Hemming, secretary; Richard Fullen, treasurer; Sterling Poling and Bob Temple, directors.

Guests at the meeting were: Jerry Woessner, Anson Cook, Harry Blank, John Herlihy, Ralph Cop and Jim Poulson.

Court Sentences Murray To Ohio Penitentiary On Assault Charge

Thursday, the court sent a 36-year-old Circleville man to the Ohio Penitentiary.

Roy Murray, Barnes Ave., changed a plea of innocent to guilty after the prosecution reduced the charge of malicious stabbing and cutting of Mattie Bashment to assault with a dangerous weapon.

Murray was sent to the penitentiary to serve a 1 to 5 year term.

Nineteen-year-old Steven Wayne Slater, 455 Watt St., pleaded guilty to forging a $700 check and attempting to cash it at a local bank. He was released on probation and ordered to pay the costs of prosecution within 60 days.

Two of four teenage youths who broke into a coin vending machine belonging to Jack Heeter appeared Thursday. One, Terry Ratcliff, 19, of Route 2, entered a guilty plea and was released on probation for a three year period. He was ordered to pay one fourth of the cost of damages to Heeter.

The second youth, William Randolph Young, also 19, of the Neuding Trailer Court, entered a guilty plea, but his case was continued to allow the probation officer to investigate the possibility of Young entering the Navy.

A plea of guilty was entered in 1972 by Elmer Butterbaugh, charged with failure to provide for his minor child. Since the youngster was taken from the home of her mother and placed in Butterbaugh's care by Children's Services, the court ordered 18 months probation for Butterbaugh.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Three Strikes, He's Out!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 29-year-old woman who has been married and divorced three times in the last 10 years. You will probably say what everybody else says when you find out I married and divorced the same man all three times.

Our last divorce became final three weeks ago, and now Mike is begging me to marry him again. We have no children and we don't want any. I really love the guy, Abby, but the only time he is good to me is when we're divorced. Mike is a wonderful lover, but he's a rotten husband. When we're man and wife he drinks, runs around, and stays out late. I never know where he is or who he's with, which drives me up a wall.

If you knew how much we've spent on lawyers you would think we were out of our minds. I know there will never be any other man for me, but I know if I marry Mike again he'll go back to his old mean, abusive ways. Can you help me?

THREE-TIME LOSER
DEAR LOSER: Three strikes and a man is OUT, no matter how good he pitches. Some men are great to date but not to mate, and Mike could be one of them.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 21, and she shares an apartment with another girl. Until she went to college she was very considerate, and since she was an only child we were a very close family.

Although she was invited, she did not spend Christmas, Thanksgiving, Mother's Day, or Father's Day with us. She sent cards, but she spent those special days with her boy friend and his parents.

Naturally, I was upset, and when I confronted her she said there are 365 days a year to love us, and why should she give up these particular days? She says times have changed and I am square. Am I?

VERY HURT
DEAR HURT: No, but don't make an issue of it. I can understand your being "hurt," but if you continue to make her feel guilty, you may see even less of her.

DEAR ABBY: My brother, Bob, was adopted by my family when he was a small baby. Bob is now over legal age, and was just informed that his real mother is an Indian living in Alaska and he is getting money from her oil rights.

Bob says it is all like a dream, because he never knew he was adopted. He is trying to make up his mind whether to go to Alaska to collect the money. He doesn't know what to say to his mother, who is still living, because he has always considered the mother who raised him his one and only mother.

Senate Sets Own Probe Of Watergate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., chosen to head a Senate investigation of the Watergate bugging affair, wants to create a special five-member committee with broad subpoena powers to conduct the probe.

Asked if White House aides might be called to testify, Ervin said he intends to subpoena witnesses if he believes they have information "regardless of the positions they hold."

The North Carolina Democrat said Wednesday he is drafting, for consideration by the Democratic leadership and the Senate, a resolution to create the investigative panel.

Ervin said the start of hearings by the special committee is at least several weeks away.

A U.S. District Court on Tuesday found G. Gordon Liddy and James W. McCord Jr. guilty of burglarizing and wiretapping Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate complex. They are in jail pending a hearing on a motion to have bond set.

Five other defendants entered guilty pleas shortly after the start of the 16-day trial. Five of the seven were arrested inside the Watergate offices early last June 17.

On Vietnam Bonuses

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan today said he would not oppose a Vietnam war veterans bonus as a "symbolic" gesture but feels there are other ways to honor veterans.

Gilligan, at a news conference, said education and employment opportunities were areas in which the state could help.

This picture of Carla makes me think of an old proverb my mother used to quote: "Precious things come in small packages."

Go ahead, mark me down for a doting dad. I'm quick to admit that my little girl is precious to me. With her loving arms about my neck I feel richer than a king. I walk into a room and see her eyes light up — so who wants to be president? As she snuggles down among the blankets, I kiss her and tell myself that I'll give her the best, now and always.

That's why I take her to church every Sunday. I want God to be a part of Carla's life from the very first. I know that an understanding of God and His love will ensure my daughter's well-being far beyond any material gift I could give her.

God's goodness is yours for the taking. Enrich your life. Go to your church, and take your family with you.

Airlines Split Over End To Special Fares

NEW YORK (AP) — The airlines industry views with mixed feelings a government order eliminating such discount fares as the family plan and the youth plan, a step which the government says could lead to reductions in regular fares.

After lengthy hearings on fare structures, the Civil Aeronautics Board issued in December an order canceling family and youth rates on grounds they were discriminatory and unreasonable.

Instead of making the cancellation effective immediately, it said hearings would be conducted on the effects of the cancellation. The board's view was that when a number of discount or promotional fares have been eliminated, many of the special passengers would be paying regular fares, thereby increasing the carriers' revenues, and making possible a reduction in basic rates.

Under the family plan, the head of the family pays the regular fare; there is a discount of 25 per cent for his wife and for their children over 12 years of age, and a discount of 33 1-3 per cent for children under 12.

The "youth standby" rate — requiring a passenger to take a chance on getting a seat on a specific flight — has a discount of 33 1-3 per cent. Some lines also have a "youth reservations" rate with a discount of 20 or 25 per cent.

The family plans have been in use since 1948 and the youth plans since 1960.

These special plans are not a major source of revenue, the airlines say. Trans World Airlines estimates the family plan accounts for about 10 per cent of its revenue passenger-miles, and the youth standby plan for about 5 per cent.

TWA, American Airlines and United Air Lines have filed petitions with the CAB asking for reconsideration of the order, but for differing reasons.

TWA argues that the board was mistaken in its ruling that the costs of carrying passengers at special rates were "substantially the same" as the costs of carrying them at regular rates.

It also asserted that the board "mistakenly assumed that elimination of these discount fares would lead to lower prices for normal tickets." TWA says the CAB "erroneously argues that discount traffic is 'subsidized' by normal fare traffic."

Big Drug Theft From New York Police Probed

NEW YORK (AP) — New procedures for monitoring narcotics evidence have been ordered following the disclosure that 398 pounds of heroin and cocaine worth $73 million were stolen from the police department from 1961 to 1972.

Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy announced the loss Thursday following a five-week audit begun after the discovery that a large amount of heroin seized in the famous "French Connection" case was missing from the police department's property clerk's office.

Murphy said he was confident that the latest figure — broken down into 261 pounds of heroin and 137 pounds of cocaine — accounted for virtually all of the stolen narcotics.

In first reporting the missing "French Connection" heroin last December, Murphy called the theft "without doubt the worst instance of police corruption I have uncovered."

Guest columnist, Nelle Francis, reviews some of the newer books which have been available in the library.

Fletcher Knebel's "Dark Horse" has been on the national best-seller lists. It is a good, well-written political story. The main character, urged to act as a dark horse in a presidential race, is a college man who has never reached a very high position in his life's work. He is a Catholic, separated from his wife, and father of two boys in their early twenties. He lives in a motel. He is a highway official and a devout friend of the underdog. He is a surprising campaign. You can't help but follow—interested in his method of swinging people to his side by offering them a "fair shake." He really means it. His love life is another thing—in no way disgusting. Read it, it's good!

"Flight One" by Charles Carpenter is a story of The Aardvark, a new supersonic commercial airline plane, planned to make the flight from California to JFK Airport in New York in two hours. The crew all have personal problems that make it tough to make decisions when trouble comes. A splendid emotional story. The ready actually can't put it down. Descriptions are very graphic and technical. Thoroughly enjoyed it!

A splendid, but tragic story of an American bomber crew based in England in World War II is James Facos' "The Silver Lady." We have the touching personal generalizations between the members and the effort to find what lies behind the reasons for their various interpretations. It is a life of inner hell. There is a wonderful short interlude of loving — beautiful, but full of pathos for the girl has only a short time to live. It's a book you can't read without crying your heart out as the flyers go on their losing missions — ever on and on? The Silver Lady was their bomber which they loved. It had a crew which seemed to have a charmed life for a while. If you like war stories, read it.

"The Bridge" by H. W. Mountzoures is one of the most unhappy family stories I have read. A greek couple marry and come to America to get rich. She is a lovely girl, but is not accustomed to working as she has to in her slum tenement life. She has a child each year, several miscarriages, and becomes practically insane—is an and out of institutions. The eight children are farmed out by the welfare to a family who commercialize on them. The thirteen year old boy who tells the story also lives with this family. The children are starved and beaten, and made to stay outside in the winter until bedtime. The boy wants to become a doctor to discover the cause of his mother's illness. He gets a scholarship and takes some pre-medical work, but decides he would rather write. He visits Greece, but the dampness and cold aggravate his tendency toward TB. He has not long to live. Several of the other children marry and leave home. The father wants only a fine car and money-money-money.

A somewhat interesting older book is "The Plum Explosion" by John van der Zee. It concerns a young man, a non-mixer, taking some college studies. He discovers a vast young plum orchard where he can be alone, shaded by beautifully blossoms. He becomes sort of "hipped" by the trees and fruits. Eventually he builds a housing project among the plum trees, naming the streets after the various kinds of plums. Finally the venture fails because the plums simply swamp the whole project. Too, too many — even the garbage man won't pick up the refuse! Like a scourage of locusts, the too fertile trees have to be bulldozed out. It's pathetic and in a way comic — light reading.

The board's view was that when a number of discount or promotional fares have been eliminated, many of the special passengers would be paying regular fares, thereby increasing the carriers' revenues, and making possible a reduction in basic rates.

Under the family plan, the head of the family pays the regular fare; there is a discount of 25 per cent for his wife and for their children over 12 years of age, and a discount of 33 1-3 per cent for children under 12.

The "youth standby" rate — requiring a passenger to take a chance on getting a seat on a specific flight — has a discount of 33 1-3 per cent. Some lines also have a "youth reservations" rate with a discount of 20 or 25 per cent.

The family plans have been in use since 1948 and the youth plans since 1960.

TWA argues that the board was mistaken in its ruling that the costs of carrying passengers at special rates were "substantially the same" as the costs of carrying them at regular rates.

It also asserted that the board "mistakenly assumed that elimination of these discount fares would lead to lower prices for normal tickets." TWA says the CAB "erroneously argues that discount traffic is 'subsidized' by normal fare traffic."

Melvin A. Brenner, vice president of marketing and planning for TWA, says family and youth fares not only help special passengers, but also are of indirect benefit to the regular passengers.

"The cost of flying does not vary much with the number of seats occupied," he says. "Therefore if we can bring additional people aboard, a few more people — say 10 per cent — can make a big difference in economic viability."

In the industry as a whole, scheduled airlines have found the average flight has about 50 per cent of its seats empty.

American Airlines has also petitioned the board to keep family and youth plans, but United Air Lines has proposed that the board's order be placed in effect immediately.

Although United has such services for competitive reasons, a spokesman says, its long-term philosophy has been against them. United always contends that the discounts divert more traffic than they generate and might be discriminatory, as the CAB says. Youth standby age rules have been difficult to enforce, the spokesman adds.

Eastern Air Lines has generally opposed systemwide discount fares, leaning toward promotional fares designed for special markets — such as the multitude of colleges and universities in Eastern's territory.

Eastern is a North-South carrier with relatively short flights and says it faces competition from trains and buses that puts it in a different position than that of the transcontinental lines.

Most POWs Said Likely To Continue In Service

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— State and federal employment experts predict most returning prisoners of war won't need job placement help right away because they'll be staying in the service.

"The average POW has 16 years in the service," said Stan Wyman, spokesman for the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services. "That's only four years to retirement. We assume that most of them will stay in."

But those who decide to leave the military and look for jobs, will find a small army of placement experts and a vast array of special programs to help them.

"If you added up the list of programs and departments that are involved in this, it probably would be more than there are POWs," Wyman said at a news briefing Wednesday.

Returnees will have access to the same programs that have been available to all veterans, but OBES counselor Thomas Edwards said red tape and many requirements will be cut for the POWs.

Victor Smith of the U.S. Department of Labor, who was also at the briefing, said both state and federal agencies will "break our necks" to see that returning prisoners obtain the jobs they want.

Edwards said that if military and civilian government job counselors can't help a returnee, the 30,000-member National Alliance of Businesses has offered placement services.

The Labor Department is also putting up $500,000 to pay for trips by POWs to distant points for job interviews and for relocation expenses up to $1,200.

Smith said the Department of Labor has been less successful than it would like to be in finding jobs for veterans, although he said placement has picked up in the last year.

But Wyman said the returning prisoners, as a group, should be easier to place than veterans in general. He said most are officers, and many have college experience or technical skills.

OBES will be directly concerned with the 26 Ohio POWs who will be returning to Wright Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton.

Edwards said he also would help the estimated 74 other returnees to be processed through Dayton to get in touch with placement resources in Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia, Michigan and Pennsylvania.

First Baptist Church Plans To Show Film

"For Pete's Sake!", a film credited as "unique in its capacity to reach out to meet the problems of people," will be shown on Feb. 4 at The First Bpatist Church, 1540 N. Court St.

The full-length comed-drama, filmed in Eastmancolor by World Wide Pictures, will be shown once beginning at 6 p.m. and is open to the public at no admission charge.

Filmed entirely on location in Denver and the Colorado Rockies, "For Pete's Sake!" is the story of Pete Harper, a family man and service station owner, who is knocked flat by unexpected problems, but finds the strength to stand up again.

"For Pete's Sake!" has been seen nationwide by over three million persons in theatre premieres, and has been cited by one film critic as "the perfect mixture — it's drama at its boldest, comedy at its lightest, and action at its liveliest. "For Pete's Sake!" is a family film, not only because it is good family entertainment, but because through its storyline, families can see and feel exactly what is needed to develop deeper understanding and build stronger ties."

The movie stars Robert Sampson, who also starred in World Wide's "The Restless Ones." Pippa Scott, as Pete's wife, Marge, is well-known for her Broadway appearances and numerous television roles. John Milford and Sam Groom are both familiar to television audiences.

Other featured players include Johnny Jensen as Pete's son, Irene Tedrow as Grandma Harper, and Nicholas Surovy as Skip, the leader of a motorcycle gang.

A cordial invitation is extended to all families of the community by Rev. T. Milton Duke, who has made arrangements for this special showing of "For Pete's Sake!"

4 Persons Die In Auto Crash

Killed were James V. Martin, 46, his wife, Ruth, 47, their son, Jeffrey, 4, and Mary Ells, 73, who resided with the Martins.

The injured were reported in guarded condition today at Aultman Hospital in Canton. They were two Martin children-Cynthia, 16, and Darryl, 9—and Anthony Schwartzhoff, 20, of Sebring.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said Schwartzhoff was alone in one car.

Heavy Rains Pound East; West Dry

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter rains, drizzle and snow were scattered across the eastern half of the nation today while the West remained generally clear and cool.

Rain and drizzle dampened areas from the mid Mississippi Valley to the Ohio Valley. Thundershowers hit the extreme Southeast, and rain, heavy in places, soaked the south Atlantic states to Virginia. Hickory, N.C., absorbed almost 2½ inches of rain.

Flash-flood warnings were posted in the western Carolinas.

Freezing rain and snow touched areas from northwest Missouri into the northern Mississippi Valley and the northern Great Lakes region as well as the Northeast. Gale warnings were displayed over all the Great Lakes.

A heavy-snow warning remained in effect for northern Wisconsin.

6-Member Ethics Panel Selected By Ohio Assembly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A six-member legislative subcommittee was named Thursday to draft a code of ethics for members of the Ohio General Assembly.

Sen. Paul Gillmor, chairman of the newly-created Legislative Ethics Committee, announced the appointments. His committee was created by a bill passed by the legislature last Dec. 15.

The Port Clinton Republican said the full committee eventually will adopt a legislative code of ethics which will affect the General Assembly without requiring its approval.

Named to the bipartisan drafting group were Reps. William G. Batchelder, R-93 Medina; James P. Celebrezze, D-4 Cleveland; Joseph P. Tulley, R-59 Mentor; and Sens. Anthony F. Novak, D-23 Cleveland; Robert J. Corts, R-13 Elyria, and Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron.

Dentists Discount Report Of High Toothpaste Lead

CHICAGO (AP) — The American Dental Association has challenged a report published in its own journal.

A group of Philadelphia researchers report in the February issue of the Journal of the American Dental Association that some children may be getting dangerous amounts of lead from toothpaste tubes.

"Squeezing an almost-empty tube dry can liberate toothpaste in which there is an accumulation of lead," they wrote of their study a year ago of six advertised brands.

They refused to identify the brands tested other than to say they were six leading brands. They said the names of the brands had been sent to the dental association for investigation.

"Unfortunately, the article ... does not identify the products tested nor whether they represent current production or whether they represent brands which have a major share of the market," the dental association said Wednesday in a statement issued in response to a newsman's inquiry.

"It is therefore, impossible to evaluate the extent of the problem, if one exists."

The association's statement continued:

"As far as the association has been able to determine, all the major brands of toothpaste, which represent approximately 90 per cent of the products sold today, are presently packaged in either plastic, aluminum or aluminum plastic laminated tubes."

An association spokesman said decisions about what is published in the journal are made independently by the editor.

"If he found lead in our toothpaste, he must have gotten an old tube because we've been in aluminum containers for the last 15 years," a spokesman for Pepsodent commented.

"We went to plastic tubes last summer," said a spokesman for Crest. "Our market research people told us at the time that we were the last to switch."

License Tag Output Behind

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Shortage of workers at the Lebanon Correctional Institute has put the production of auto license tags for Ohio about two million plates behind, a motor vehicles registration official said today.

Brian Bolton, an administrative assistant in the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, said 100 inmates are working overtime to complete the tags by their scheduled sale date, March 16.

Bolton said about 5 million sets of the white-on-green tags have been finished and most have been shipped to the state's 800 deputy registrars.

"We'll be operating with a two-day supply in some places but that should be enough until we complete the rest," he said. "we're really in no crisis. We're just a little behind."

A prison official blamed the production delay on a shortage of workers in the tag production shop. Normally about 140 men produce the tags but only 115 have worked in recent weeks, said Joseph Dembinski, assistant director for administration and fiscal affairs for the department of Corrections.

Some of the tag workers were assigned to other high priority jobs such as food services and laundry, he said.

About 100 inmates have volunteered to work two to three hours overtime daily to make up the shortage he said. The inmates, all first offenders between the ages of 18 and 30, are paid 10 cents an hour, with no increase for overtime.

The tags are scheduled to be shipped to registrars March 1, to go on sale between March 16 and April 15. The price is $10.50. Some counties charge $5 more for its road programs.

More Navy Racial Trouble Reported On Big Carrier

DENNISPORT, Mass. (AP) — The Navy has confirmed a report of racial trouble aboard the carrier U.S.S. Intrepid but terms "a little harsh" the charge of an officer that "what is going on at present is plain mutiny."

Lt. Fred E. O'Brien, 42, of Dennisport made the charge in letters to Sens. Edward M. Kennedy and Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts. They were sent to his wife, Jane, and forwarded Wednesday.

Written Jan. 21 while the carrier was in the Mediterranean, the letters said,

"Blood has been spilled on the vessel between the whites and blacks ... What is going on at present is plain mutiny ..."

"As I write this letter, groups of blacks are roaming this ship, beating and threatening others with bodily harm.

"Threats have been made against the ship itself. Eight black sailors have been transported off the ship today because of threats they had made while meeting with senior officers of this command.

"Four other blacks are in the brig for beating fellow sailors for no reason except they were white. The remaining blacks are demanding that the commanding officer return all or some of them back to the ship and have threatened more violence if he does not meet their demands.

"The threats are being carried out at present by gangs of blacks roaming around with wrenches and pipes."

A Navy spokesman in Washington said there were three outbreaks of racial violence on the ship during the week of Jan. 21. Four blacks and one white were punished, he said, and the incidents are under investigation.

The spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said, "There were incidents on the ship, but I think 'mutiny' is a little harsh."

Employers Must

Hire Ex-Convicts

ANKARA (AP) — Labor Minister Ali Riza Uzuner has disclosed that there are 400,000 unemployed handicapped persons and ex-convicts in Turkey. He said this is one of the gravest ills of the society.

The ministry has issued a new set of regulations to employers asking them to give a job to one handicapped or ex-convict for every 50 people they employ.

The ministry also asked that handicapped persons should be given suitable jobs that will not be too heavy or dangerous.

New Rules Hit Cheating On Welfare

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state is coupling new regulations with proposed legislation for "fiscal sanctions" to force county welfare departments to crack down on welfare cheaters.

Welfare Director Charles Bates calls the new state effort a program of "aggressive helpfulness."

He told newsmen Thursday he does not think fraud is widespread throughout Ohio, and conceded that the department crackdown is intended in part to "help us do a better job and gain the confidence of the public."

Bates said a bill is being drafted that would allow the state to withhold county government funds when welfare departments do not cooperate with state efforts to ferret out cheaters.

Details have not been worked out, Bates said, but he added an effort would be made to "find sanctions that would not affect recipients' grants."

New regulations announced by Bates include a requirement for each of the 88 counties to file no later than March 1 a plan giving in detail what each is doing about welfare fraud and the prosecution of cheaters. The plans would have to be updated each year.

Do you endeavor to go God's way, and the way of the world at the same time? You will never, never make a go of this. You might as well try to reach the equator by traveling toward the South Pole. Are you striving to make heaven while trailing the traffic of the "broad way?" If this is your course you shall surely end up in hell. Jesus said: "Enter ye in at the strait gate; for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat; because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it." (Matt. 7:13,14).

A beautiful daughter, but vain, was awakened to see herself a sinner, and a lost soul, and her need of Christ's salvation. Her unsaved mother, though a popular church member, succeeded in bribing the girl, by an expensive dress, to settle simply by joining the church rather than repenting and turning away from her sins and to Christ alone for salvation. The daughter took sick, and within days was dying without hope. She requested her mother to go and bring her beautiful dress. The mother having complied, the girl, with trembling finger, pointed to the dress saying, "Mother, that is the price of my soul. I am dying without God, and you are responsible." Love not the world (this world system), neither the things that are in the world. If any man (person) love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. (1 John 2:15). Most POWs Said Likely To Continue In Service

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State and federal employment experts predict most returning prisoners of war won't need job placement help right away because they'll be staying in the service.

"The average POW has 16 years in the service," said Stan Wyman, spokesman for the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services. "That's only four years to retirement. We assume that most of them will stay in."

But those who decide to leave the military and look for jobs, will find a small army of placement experts and a vast array of special programs to help them.

"If you added up the list of programs and departments that are involved in this, it probably would be more than there are POWs," Wyman said at a news briefing Wednesday.

Returnees will have access to the same programs that have been available to all veterans, but OBES counselor Thomas Edwards said red tape and many requirements will be cut for the POWs.

Victor Smith of the U.S. Department of Labor, who was also at the briefing, said both state and federal agencies will "break our necks" to see that returning prisoners obtain the jobs they want.

Edwards said that if military and civilian government job counselors can't help a returnee, the 30,000-member National Alliance of Businesses has offered placement services.

The Labor Department is also putting up $500,000 to pay for trips by POWs to distant points for job interviews and for relocation expenses up to $1,200.

Smith said the Department of Labor has been less successful than it would like to be in finding jobs for veterans, although he said placement has picked up in the last year.

But Wyman said the returning prisoners, as a group, should be easier to place than veterans in general. He said most are officers, and many have college experience or technical skills.

OBES will be directly concerned with the 26 Ohio POWs who will be returning to Wright Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton.

Edwards said he also would help the estimated 74 other returnees to be processed through Dayton to get in touch with placement resources in Indiana, Kentucky, West Virginia, Michigan and Pennsylvania.

First Baptist Church Plans To Show Film

"For Pete's Sake!", a film credited as "unique in its capacity to reach out to meet the problems of people," will be shown on Feb. 4 at The First Bpatis Church, 1540 N. Court St.

The full-length comed-drama, filmed in Eastmancolor by World Wide Pictures, will be shown once beginning at 6 p.m. and is open to the public at no admission charge.

Filmed entirely on location in Denver and the Colorado Rockies, "For Pete's Sake!" is the story of Pete Harper, a family man and service station owner, who is knocked flat by unexpected problems, but finds the strength to stand up again.

"For Pete's Sake!" has been seen nationwide by over three million persons in theatre premieres, and has been cited by one film critic as "the perfect mixture — it's drama at its boldest, comedy at its lightest, and action at its liveliest. "For Pete's Sake!" is a family film, not only because it is good family entertainment, but because through its storyline, families can see and feel exactly what is needed to develop deeper understanding and build stronger ties."

The movie stars Robert Sampson, who also starred in World Wide's "The Restless Ones." Pippa Scott, as Pete's wife, Marge, is well-known for her Broadway appearances and numerous television roles. John Milford and Sam Groom are both familiar to television audiences.

Other featured players include Johnny Jensen as Pete's son, Irene Tedrow as Grandma Harper, and Nicholas Surovy as Skip, the leader of a motorcycle gang.

A cordial invitation is extended to all families of the community by Rev. T. Milton Duke, who has made arrangements for this special showing of "For Pete's Sake!"

Firemen's Dance

Get your dancing toes ready to go. The Williamsport Volunteer Fire Dept. will hold their monthly 50-50 dance at the Pavilion on Feb. 10 this month. Hours are from 8 until 12 and refreshments are available.

A good way to banish the January blahs is to have a change of pace and scenery and that's just what Gary and Sandy Wisecup and their two captivating chillun, Tracey and Brian did last weekend. They went to Marietta and "put up" at the Holiday Inn and along with a bit of sight seeing enjoyed being with dear friends, Rev. Norman and Sue Williams and their youngsters, Andy, Nik and Amy. Both families had Sunday dinner together in Parkersburg, W. Va.

Luara Schleich, little one of Don and Ruth Schleich, has been pronounced "all better" by her surgeon from severe injuries she suffered several weeks ago when she got caught in a piece of farm machinery. Many stitches were required to close the wounds. On top of that she became a victim of the flu and was a very sick girl for many days.

Two other flu victims that we have heard about are Cindy Hamman and Jim Howell. Suzan Bivens has been on the ailing list, too.

Orlyn "Bud" Glispy who underwent major surgery at Mt. Carmel Hospital is now at home. However, he must return to University Hospital eacy day for further treatments for approximately the next three weeks and transportation poses a most difficult problem for him. Are there any good samaritan types available who would provide transportation for him? If so, please call his next door neighbor, Mrs. Pearl Cochenour at 986-3045.

That time of year to purchase license plates is getting closer and closer. Our local deputy registrar, Helen (Mrs. Paul) Whitesed will start reserving numbers the last week of February and will do so until March 13 give or take a day or so probably. She has not established definite hours as yet but start saving your do-re-mi so you will be ready when she is.

Talked with Paul Chester in Roundtown for a while and he is coming along quite well from the severe heart attack he suffered several weeks ago. In about six more weeks he hopes and expects to be released by his doctor for bigger and better things or something like that. We all wish him continued good recovery.

Street Signs

Put three eager and earnest women at the helm of a project and it will be done. That's how it is with the Sorosis sponsored street signs for our village and the three go-getters are Mary Gearheart, Frances Fry and Margene Looney. Plans are in full swing to contact all businesses and organizations, (locally that is), for any donations that they might wish to make. Also, any other out of town businesses or organizations interested in being a part of this community project are encouraged to do so. The same holds true for each and every private citizen desiring to help in this very worthwhile and much needed effort. Any amount is indeed welcome. No donation too small or too large. Just send to Doris Reynolds—Sorosis treasurer—Williamsport, Ohio 43164. The materials necessary for installing and mounting the signs have been ordered. When the time comes to dig the holes volunteers can be sued to supply the labor. Let's make this a real united community "bag". For far too many years we have done without so let's show these three how much we appreciate their work and the organization they represent and all together now support Project Signs!

Hey, all you people who have heard other folks conversing in their home when you were using your phone or when you dial a number and can hear someone else do me a favor please and call the telephone company—especially repair and report it. I had the experience today of having a phone company representative call and comment about the new direct dialing soon to be effective and she asked for comments. When I told her of these weirdo things that have been happening here in our village phone service for some time now I had the feeling she thought I had climbed the wall too far. Shortly afterwards a clerk from repair service called and questioned me about it and again I told her what was taking place. I am convinced she thought there was not hope, that I was completely and hopelessly flipped. So, please, those of you who have had the same experiences (and I know you have because you have discussed it) please call repair service and verify my statements.

Pearl Cochenour and her sweetie Petey pulled a bit of a surprise birthday to do for Grandma B the other evening. Sneaking in to shre cake and the trimmings with her were son Jack Brayshaw and his Patti and their Rick, Barry and his girl friend, grandson Jim Cochenour with his Norma and their Christal, Sherrie, Jimmy Dee and Damon.

Don't forget to buy your tickets for the Monroe Men's Gospel Singspiration in advance so you can save a tidy sum.

Three Injured In Car Crash At Intersection

Three people were injured slightly in a two car crash at the intersection of Route 104 and 56 3:25 p.m. Thursday, according to Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Bob Hoover.

Deputy Hoover said a car driven by Paul P. Kimbro, 26, Bellaire, Tex., stopped at the intersection of the roads to heed a stop sign on Route 56 but then pulled into the path of a car driven by Robert D. Allen, 25, Chillicothe. Skid marks indicate both drivers were braking when impact occurred.

Kimbro was charged with failing to yield the right of way.

His wife, Rebecca, 24, was treated at Berger Hospital's emergency room for leg brusies. Passenger, Paul Kimbro, 7, complained of a bump on his head. Other passengers, Sheldon, 5, Kevin, 2, Emily, 3 months, and Mavis Waters, 52, Plain City, were not hurt.

Allen was treated for back injuries, mouth injuries and contusions and abrasions.

Westfall Board Surveys Its School Facilities

Westfall Board of Education met informally Monday with the superintendent and other administrative officers of the county and district to discuss the school buildings and scheduling of classes.

The group centered its discussion around the physical condition and needs of the schools in the district and the two sessions being held in the high school building. The district adopted a double session schedule for the 1972-73 school year to accommodate junior high and high school students each for a half day of classes in the one building.

The double sessions at the high school building are considered less than ideal, so the board is seeking ways to alleviate this situation.

Mrs. Jeanne Lett, president of the board, gave a brief account of some suggestions made by John Brown, Director of the Division of Elementary and Secondary Education.

District Superintendent Gordon Massie and County Superintendent Ed Martin reported on the Art Workshop for teachers held Jan. 23, 24 and 25 at Jackson School. Nineteen teachers from the Westfall district were among the fifty who participated in the project. The program was arranged for the Pickaway County Schools by Mrs. Marjorie Evans, elementary supervisor.

Firemen's Dance
Get your dancing toes ready to go. The Williamsport Volunteer Fire Dept. will hold their monthly 50-50 dance at the Pavilion on Feb. 10 this month. Hours are from 8 until 12 and refreshments are available.

A good way to banish the January blahs is to have a change of pace and scenery and that's just what Gary and Sandy Wisecup and their two captivating chillun, Tracey and Brian did last weekend. They went to Marietta and "put up" at the Holiday Inn and along with a bit of sight seeing enjoyed being with dear friends, Rev. Norman and Sue Williams and their youngsters, Andy, Nik and Amy. Both families had Sunday dinner together in Parkersburg, W. Va.

Luara Schleich, little one of Don and Ruth Schleich, has been pronounced "all better" by her surgeon from severe injuries she suffered several weeks ago when she got caught in a piece of farm machinery. Many stitches were required to close the wounds. On top of that she became a victim of the flu and was a very sick girl for many days.

Two other flu victims that we have heard about are Cindy Hamman and Jim Howell. Suzan Bivens has been on the ailing list, too.

Orlyn "Bud" Glispy who underwent major surgery at Mt. Carmel Hospital is now at home. However, he must return to University Hospital eacy day for further treatments for approximately the next three weeks and transportation poses a most difficult problem for him. Are there any good samaritan types available who would provide transportation for him? If so, please call his next door neighbor, Mrs. Pearl Cochenour at 986-3045.

That time of year to purchase license plates is getting closer and closer. Our local deputy registrar, Helen (Mrs. Paul) Whitesed will start reserving numbers the last week of February and will do so until March 13 give or take a day or so probably. She has not established definite hours as yet but start saving your do-re-mi so you will be ready when she is.

Talked with Paul Chester in Roundtown for a while and he is coming along quite well from the severe heart attack he suffered several weeks ago. In about six more weeks he hopes and expects to be released by his doctor for bigger and better things or something like that. We all wish him continued good recovery.

Street Signs
Put three eager and earnest women at the helm of a project and it will be done. That's how it is with the Sorosis sponsored street signs for our village and the three go-getters are Mary Gearheart, Frances Fry and Margene Looney. Plans are in full swing to contact all businesses and organizations, (locally that is), for any donations that they might wish to make. Also, any other out of town businesses or organizations interested in being a part of this community project are encouraged to do so. The same holds true for each and every private citizen desiring to help in this very worthwhile and much needed effort. Any amount is indeed welcome. No donation too small or too large. Just send to Doris Reynolds—Sorosis treasurer—Williamsport, Ohio 43164. The materials necessary for installing and mounting the signs have been ordered. When the time comes to dig the holes volunteers can be sued to supply the labor. Let's make this a real united community "bag". For far too many years we have done without so let's show these three how much we appreciate their work and the organization they represent and all together now support Project Signs!

Hey, all you people who have heard other folks conversing in their home when you were using your phone or when you dial a number and can hear someone else do me a favor please and call the telephone company—especially repair and report it. I had the experience today of having a phone company representative call and comment about the new direct dialing soon to be effective and she asked for comments. When I told her of these weirdo things that have been happening here in our village phone service for some time now I had the feeling she thought I had climbed the wall too far. Shortly afterwards a clerk from repair service called and questioned me about it and again I told her what was taking place. I am convinced she thought there was not hope, that I was completely and hopelessly flipped. So, please, please, those of you who have had the same experiences (and I know you have because you have discussed it) please call repair service and verify my statements.

Pearl Cochenour and her sweetie Petey pulled a bit of a surprise birthday to do for Grandma B the other evening. Tigers Searching For Wins After Double Defeat

The Tigers of Circleville were out-coached, out-hustled and out-rebounded last weekend as they dropped two hard-fought decisions.

Friday night they were caught off-guard by the Hillsboro Indians, who were on the warpath, and handed the Tigers only their second defeat in league competition. CHS could not run the offense effectively and came up on the short end of a effort.

Teays Valley Vikings invaded Mill Street Gym Saturday night and left Circleville a proud and satisfied team. In a big county rivalry, the Vikings had it all together, and won the game.

The Tigers never gave up, but just couldn't overcome the rebounding of the Vikings and the decision of the referees.

Tonight Roundtown will be hosting the fired-up Panthers of Miami Trace. Always an explosive ball club, the Tigers of Circleville will have their hands full containing the Jones boys, and stopping Traces' fast-break efforts. Saturday night CHS travels to Hamilton Twp. to tangle with the Rangers.

MISS DEE GRANDSTAFF
Girls' Phys. Ed.

Newest member of the CHS faculty is Miss Dee Grandstaff. She has taken over the girls' physical education department vacated by Mrs. Diane Wilson, who is expecting her first child in March.

Miss Grandstaff lives at 4551 Kenny Road in Columbus, her hometown.

She attended Ohio State University where she graduated with a BS in secondary education. She majored in physical education and minored in health.

At OSU, she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority, Pi Lambda Theta Sorority, and the Coed Cadets, a ROTC drill team. Her previous teaching experience consists of being a substitute for the Columbus Board of Education.

Miss Grandstaff feels Circleville is a nice community and likes CHS because it is the type of school in which she wanted to teach.

Teen Selected To Attend Clinic

Along with 140 other high school musicians, CHS band member June Brudzinski was selected to perform with the All-Ohio Band at the New Music Reading Clinic held at Bowling Green State University Jan. 26 and 27.

The clinic, now in its seventeenth year, is held for the purpose of acquainting band directors with new music which is sight-read by the All-Ohio Band.

This year's guest director was Jack O. Evans, former head of the OSU band. He conducted the group, which draws from 425 applicants in 118 high schools throughout the state, in over 50 pieces of contemporary and classical music.

June, otherwise known as "Tuba Woman," placed fifth chair out of ten tubas in the band, as a result of early-morning auditions. She and CHS director Gary Dean also observed the BGSU Concert and Symphonic Bands, Sylvania High School, and Grandview High School in four excellent concerts.

June remarked, "It was quite an experience! I wish every CHS bandman could have had the opportunity to perform with and observe such fantastic musicians."

Pentagon Papers Coverup Claimed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A retired Air Force officer has told jurors in the Pentagon papers trial of secret orders to remove from government files reports which could help acquit Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo.

The government, trying to refute the testimony, continues cross-examination of Lt. Col. Edward A. Miller today before questioning the man alleged to have written a memo about the orders, Charles Hinkle, director of the Office of Security Review (OSR).

Ellsberg, 41, and Russo, 35, former researchers on government projects, are charged with espionage, conspiracy and theft in connection with the release to news media of the Pentagon papers, a top secret history of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Hoosier Fuel Outlook Encouraging

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — An unusually warm and snow-free winter in Indiana so far has helped conserve dwindling stocks of fuel and brighten the outlook for the rest of the cold months.

But severe restrictions imposed on commercial users and bans placed on new residential users remain in effect.

Demands on natural gas, diesel fuel, heating oil and electricity were at peak levels as Indiana experienced a cold and wet fall season.

Records at the National Weather Service office in Indianapolis indicate November days were one degree colder than the long-term average for the month. Early December continued the trend.

For instance, Citizens Gas and Coke Co. here distributed 436 million cubic feet of natural gas on Dec. 16, the second largest demand in the company's history.

Then, the trend changed and January closed with each day averaging 2 degrees warmer than the long-time average.

In addition, the Weather Service reported central Indiana set a 100-year record for scarcity of snow. There has not yet this winter been one inch of snow on the ground in the state's middle belt and the latest this happened in the past century was Jan. 29, 1928.

Tigers Searching

For Wins After

Double Defeat

The Tigers of Circleville were out-coached, out-hustled and out-rebounded last weekend as they dropped two hard-fought decisions.

Friday night they were caught off-guard by the Hillsboro Indians, who were on the warpath, and handed the Tigers only their second defeat in league competition. CHS could not run the offense effectively and came up on the short end of a effort.

Teays Valley Vikings invaded Mill Street Gym Saturday night and left Circleville a proud and satisfied team. In a big county rivalry, the Vikings had it all together, and won the game.

The Tigers never gave up, but just couldn't overcome the rebounding of the Vikings and the decision of the referees.

Tonight Roundtown will be hosting the fired-up Panthers of Miami Trace. Always an explosive ball club, the Tigers of Circleville will have their hands full containing the Jones boys, and stopping Traces' fast-break efforts. Saturday night CHS travels to Hamilton Twp. to tangle with the Rangers.

Willie's Dillies

By BILL McGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

With the new change being made in the American League this year, maybe our beloved Cleveland Indians will even have a chance—providing they can find a pinch-hitter who can hit the ball. One thing is certain—no matter what they do it can't hurt the poor old Indians.

The American League is going to go to the new designated pinch hitter rule in an effort to put more punch into the game and stir up fan interest. But, the National League won't buy it and will stick with the game the way it has been.

As we understand the new setup, a team must, before the game starts, designate the player who will be allowed to hit for the pitcher during the game. The pitcher will then be allowed to continue on the mound.

It may have its good point but it also will take something out of the game, in our humble opinion. Part of the game is the managers problem in a tight contest when he has to make a decision to remove a pitcher, who is sailing along, in an effort to score a couple of runs. This is part of a guessing battle between managers and is vital to the game.

The advocate that using the pinch-hitter will live up the fray but it will also enable a top pitcher to continue to hold the other team in check. Instead of adding runs to the game it just might strengthen the hurler's role.

The idea that the rule will extend the playing life of older ball players, who can be used in the pinch hitting roles, does not quite ring true in our book as it is usually the batting eye that goes first as the player comes to the end of the line. A good hitting youngster should be on the field and in full action during the game. According to the rule, a designated pinch-hitter can't play in the field during the contest.

Babe Ruth started out as a pitcher with the Boston Red Sox and was a fine hurler. If the rule had been in effect at that time, maybe they never would have found out that the Bambino had the ability to propel the ball into outer space with a piece of hickory—Can you imagine anyone hitting for the Babe?

Our "fearless" forecast—Tigers will win the battle of the Cats . . . Braves will turn back the Pioneers . . . Vikings will halter the Mustangs.

Until next time, have a nice day-be a good sport.

Big George Archer Takes Share Of Hawaiian Lead

HONOLULU (AP) — Big George Archer says he's at least a month away from playing good.

"Let's just hope better days are ahead," the 6-foot-6 onetime ranch hand sighed.

But his position—a share of the lead—going into today's second round in the $200,000 Hawaiian Open Golf Tournament, doesn't really reflect his pessimism.

"I've changed everything around, the way I'm hitting the ball off the tee," Archer said. "It was just awful. Now I'm doing the right thing. But I don't feel comfortable. It'll take time. I'm at least a month away from playing the way I want to."

He managed a four-under-par 68 in Thursday's first round to tie youthful Tom Watson and old pro Gay Brewer, who has a habit of winning away from the continental United States, for the lead in this rich event that offers a $40,000 first prize.

Tied at 69, just one stroke back and three under par on the 7,154-yard Waialae Country Club course, were Doug Sanders, Lanny Wadkins, Gibby Gilbert and Takaaki Kono, a 120-pound Japanese.

McDowell Cagers Stop Lancaster

McDowell's seventh and eighth grade cagers both copped tilts from Lancaster St. Marys Thursday on the Logan Elm court.

The seventh graders, 10-0 led 6-4 at the conclusion of the first period, 22-12 at the half, 32-21 at the third period buzzer and finished with a 45-32 victory.

Tony Crist led McDowell with 13 markers, Jeff Collins had 12, Rock Huggins 10, Lynn Strehle six and Jerry Scanlon and Mark Palmer each added two. Ballinger had 12 for Lancaster.

McDowell's eighth graders were on top 6-2 at the first period end, 26-12 at halftime, 38-22 at the conclusion of the third canto and won 46-39.

Mark Skinner and Randy Pontius both had 13 points for McDowell, Mike Patrick and Steve Bowling each had six while Tim Fouch, Oscar Allen, Chuck Cave and Doug Woods had two apiece. McClellan was high for Lancaster with 12.

Both McDowell squads will be back in action 5 p.m. Thursday at Bloom Carroll.

inserted a lineup that averaged 6-foot-9 that the Cougars could cope with Parish. The big youngster led the Gents with 20 points and 22 rebounds. The victory hiked Houston's record to 14-2. Centenary is 12-5.

Memphis State took over sole possession of first place in the Missouri Valley Conference, whipping Drake 73-68. It was the 13th straight victory for the No. 17 Tigers, who took over the Conference lead when St. Louis surprised Tulsa 69-64.

Drake threw a huge scare into Memphis State, leading throughout the first half until a freshmen-led zone press spun off 13 consecutive points, seven by Bill Cook. Larry Kanan had 16 points and 16 rebounds to lead State.

BG Faces Contest With Miami

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— "This is the biggest game in the league so far," Bowling Green Coach Pat Haley says of the Falcons' Mid-American basketball date Saturday with Miami of Ohio.

"It's the rest of the league against Miami," said Haley prior to the home rematch with the Redskins. Miami won earlier at Oxford, 67-62.

If the Redskins repeat that triumph, they will be 6-1 in the league and two games up on everybody in the important loss column. However, a Miami loss would create a first-place tie between the Redskins and Bowling Green at 5-2.

"We'd be in real good shape in that case," said Haley, whose sophomore-dominated squad has its only conference road assignments left at Ohio University and Western Michigan.

"Miami has that real fine defense, its trademark," Haley said. "And (Phil) Lumpkin has given them great leadership."

Lumpkin's shooting did the Falcons in the first time. He hit 13 of 22 shots and wound up with 27 points.

Bowling Green may be without the services of Brian Scanlan, a junior forward who was decked by the flu Thursday. If Scanlan does not start, it will be Tom Scott.

"We're certainly puzzling," Haley said of his youngsters, who have lost their last three games at home and won their last three on the road.

Miami faces a bugaboo at Bowling Green. The Redskins have been in first place the last two seasons and lost both times on the Falcons' floor. It was Bowling Green's lone victory in 10 league games a year ago.

In other games, Toledo goes to Ohio University, Western Michigan to Kent State and Buffalo State to Central Michigan, all afternoon matches. The Miami-BG contest is at night.

The Toledo-Ohio game will all but eliminate the loser from the title picture. The Rockets are third at 4-3 and the Bobcats fourth at 3-3.

Elsewhere on the Ohio college scene, assistant mentor Bob Burkholder again will guide Ohio State Saturday when the Buckeyes play a Big Ten game at Wisconsin.

Head Coach Fred Taylor is winding up a week's recuperation in Florida after being hospitalized with a chest disorder two weeks ago. The Buckeyes, 2-2 in the league, need a triumph to remain a title contender.

Cincinnati tries to extend its series record over highly-regarded Houston to 13-0. The host Cougars and Bearcats haven't met since the 1963-64 season.

Computer Flub Discovered; Wrong Team In Grid Match

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "It was the chance of a lifetime and we got beat out of it."

Dan Danford searched for words to describe his and his Hannibal River High School football teammates' feelings.

Moments earlier Thursday, the Ohio High School Athletic Association said it selected the wrong team, Uniontown Lake, for the first Class AA semifinals last fall.

Instead, the Region 7 victor should have been River, a Monroe County school, OHSAA Commissioner Harold Meyer declared.

The commission publicly apologized. He said the OHSAA would reimburse the school for $200 for a computer print-out it requested. And he personally would present River a plaque for its regional title.

However, all that did little to save the wounds for River's backers. "We're just heartsick," said school principal Harry Mallett. "We can't play the semifinals now. What's in second place is so far down the line it's hard to accept."

Danford, a River co-captain and three-year starter, recalled the original announcement that Lake would be in the semifinals.

"This place was just like everybody had died," he recalled. "But we're glad we finally got first place in the region."

Otterbein, meanwhile, visits Marietta. Third-place Wittenberg, 6-2, plays at Mount Union and Capital, tied for fourth with Wooster, entertains Denison.

The other OC games send Oberlin to Baldwin-Wallace and Heidelberg to Kenyon.

River Coach Martin Flannery recalled the misty eyes of his players when they were first told they were on the sidelines with a 10-0-0 record.

"That was the best record in our history and we wind up with absolutely nothing," said Flannery, ironically coaching his last team after 24 seasons. He retired after the 1972 campaign.

River boosters president Stan Bonar, an accountant who had computer training, discovered the error and figured the correct results manually.

Another print-out was taken, and it showed River with 398 points to 375 for Lake.

Denver Tops Pacers, 97-92; Plays Ball Control Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Alex Hannum, coach of the Denver Rockets, knows what it takes to beat the defending American Basketball Association champion Indiana Pacers.

"One secret to this game," said Hannum, "is ball control. If you can control the tempo, you definitely have a good chance to win."

So Denver controlled the tempo and beat the Pacers 97-92 Thursday night, the sixth victory for the Rockets in eight games against Indiana this season.

In Thursday's only other ABA game, Carolina slugged Virginia 113-98.

In the National Basketball Association, it was Kansas City-Omaha 98, Golden State 96; and Los Angeles 120, Phoenix 106, in the only games played.

"Early in the game," said Hannum, "if we had tried to trade baskets with Indiana, we would have been in real trouble." So, instead of pressing the

Logan Elm, Reemelin Tie Meet

Logan Elm and Reemelin tied, 36-36, in a dual wrestling meet Thursday in Spangler gymnasium.

The two teams met earlier this year and Reemelin won that battle, 39-31.

Tim Kellstadt won the 98-pound class by forfeit. Gary Hall of Logan Elm pinned Mark Vargo in 1:58 of the first period of the 105-pound class.

Mark Fouch of Logan Elm pinned Tom Hartness of Reemelin in the second period of the 112-pound class. The 119-pound class went to Jim Osborne of Logan Elm by forfeit.

The next two matches were won by Reemelin grapplers. Gary Young pinned Dave Hulse in the 126-pound class and Allen Rogers outpointed Don Maxson, 3-2, in the 132-pound class.

Wes King of Logan Elm was awarded the 138-pound class by forfeit. In the 145-pound class, Don Grate of Logan Elm was decided by Bob Craft, 11-3. In the 155-pound class, Logan Elm's Bill Benner was pinned by Steve Jackson in the first period. In the 167-pound class, Mark Zwayer was pinned by Spencer Hamlin of Reemelin in the first period.

Brian Herron of Logan Elm took the 175-pound class, pinning Bob Urmann in 1:05 of the first period. The final two matches went to Reemelin grapplers. Louis Neal pinned John Seimer in the third period of the 185-pound match and Larry Favors pinned Mark Bower in the first period of the heavyweight class.

The next match for the Braves is Tuesday against Amanda-Clearcreek at Spangler gymnasium.

Then George Groom's basket and a threepoint play by Ray Kelly moved Fairfield past Detroit in the second extra period of the nightcap.

All-America Ed Ratleff and Leonard Gray pumped in 20 points each as fourth-ranked Long Beach State defeated the University of California's Santa Barbara branch 77-69.

San Francisco, ranked No. 16, defeated Nevada-Las Vegas 87-83.

Arizona State used a tight defense beating Colorado State 77-50. The Sun Devils' pressing defense held the losers scoreless for the game's first three minutes and surrendered only 17 points in the first half.

Arizona trounced Wyoming 87-69 with freshman Coniel Norman scoring 37 points, 20 in the first half.

issue, Denver played it deliberate and the tactic paid off. Dave Robisch contributed 28 points and Warren Jabali had 24 and 11 assists. Byron Beck added 20 for the Rockets.

Indiana Coach Bob Leonard thought his team could have solved the problem with some speed. "You've got to run the ball at Jabali," said Leonard. "He loves that slow-down game. We just quit running the ball. When Denver slowed down, we just quit."

Winner Set As N.Y. Jets Head Coach

NEW YORK (AP) — Charlie Winner, who has had previous football ties with Weeb Ewbank as an assistant coach and who has off-field ties as Ewbank's son-in-law, will become head coach of the New York Jets in 1974.

"I did my homework and he's the best man for the job," Phil Iselein, president of the National Football League club, said Thursday in announcing that Winner will serve as a Ewbank assistant and then take over as head coach when the 65-year-old Ewbank becomes general manager in 1974.

Winner, who has signed a three-year contract that will make him head coach through 1976, has been an assistant to George Allen, handling the Washington Redskins' defensive secondary, since he was fired as head coach of the St. Louis Cardinals following the 1970 season and a five-year-record of 35-30-5. He was 8-5-1 in 1970.

Winner was an assistant coach at Case Tech in Cleveland, and married to Nancy Ewbank, when he left in 1954 to become a Baltimore Colts assistant after Ewbank was named as head coach.

When Ewbank was fired after a 7-7 season in 1962 and was hired by the Jets, then of the American Football League, Winner stayed with the Colts under Don Shula. Two years later he became head coach of the Cardinals.

Ewbank announced last month he intended to retire from coaching after the 1973 season.

Houston Trips Centenary, 89-85

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Tiny Centenary College won the first 34 minutes of its basketball game against huge Houston Thursday night. But the Cougars remembered to take the last six and those were the ones that counted for an 89-85 victory.

Louis Dunbar's basket with only 5:44 left to play put Houston in front for the first time all night and the 11th-ranked Cougars hung on for the victory. Dunbar led all scorers with 22 points while Dwight Jones pulled down 20 rounds.

Centenary, with 7-foot freshman Robert Parish dominating the action held the lead throughout and it was only when Houston Coach Guy Lewis inserted a lineup that averaged 6-foot-9 that the Cougars could cope with Parish. The big youngster led the Gents with 20 points and 22 rebounds. The victory hiked Houston's record to 14-2. Centenary is 12-5.

Memphis State took over sole possession of first place in the Missouri Valley Conference, whipping Drake 73-68. It was the 13th straight victory for the No. 17 Tigers, who took over the Conference lead when St. Louis surprised Tulsa 69-64.

Drake threw a huge scare into Memphis State, leading throughout the first half until a freshmen-led zone press spun off 13 consecutive points, seven by Bill Cook. Larry Kanan had 16 points and 16 rebounds to lead State.

WHERE ECONOMY ORIGINATES

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY

With the new change being made in the American League this year, maybe our beloved Cleveland Indians will even have a chance—providing they can find a pinch-hitter who can hit the ball. One thing is certain—no matter what they do it can't hurt the poor old Indians.

The American League is going to go to the new designated pinch hitter rule in an effort to put more punch into the game and stir up fan interest. But, the National League won't buy it and will stick with the game the way it has been.

As we understand the new setup, a team must, before the game starts, designate the player who will be allowed to hit for the pitcher during the game. The pitcher will then be allowed to continue on the mound.

It may have its good point but it also will take something out of the game, in our humble opinion. Part of the game is the managers problem in a tight contest when he has to make a decision to remove a pitcher, who is sailing along, in an effort to score a couple of runs. This is part of a guessing battle between managers and is vital to the game.

The advocate that using the pinch-hitter will live up the fray but it will also enable a top pitcher to continue to hold the other team in check. Instead of adding runs to the game it just might strengthen the hurler's role.

The idea that the rule will extend the playing life of older ball players, who can be used in the pinch hitting roles, does not quite ring true in our book as it is usually the batting eye that goes first as the player comes to the end of the line. A good hitting youngster should be on the field and in full action during the game. According to the rule, a designated pinch-hitter can't play in the field during the contest.

Babe Ruth started out as a pitcher with the Boston Red Sox and was a fine hurler. If the rule had been in effect at that time, maybe they never would have found out that the Bambino had the ability to propel the ball into outer space with a piece of hickory—Can you imagine anyone hitting for the Babe?

Our "fearless" forecast—Tigers will win the battle of the Cats . . . Braves will turn back the Pioneers . . . Vikings will halter the Mustangs.

Until next time, have a nice day-be a good sport.

BG Faces Contest With Miami

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— "This is the biggest game in the league so far," Bowling Green Coach Pat Haley says of the Falcons' Mid-American basketball date Saturday with Miami of Ohio.

"It's the rest of the league against Miami," said Haley prior to the home rematch with the Redskins. Miami won earlier at Oxford, 67-62.

If the Redskins repeat that triumph, they will be 6-1 in the league and two games up on everybody in the important loss column. However, a Miami loss would create a first-place tie between the Redskins and Bowling Green at 5-2.

"We'd be in real good shape in that case," said Haley, whose sophomore-dominated squad has its only conference road assignments left at Ohio University and Western Michigan.

"Miami has that real fine defense, its trademark," Haley said. "And (Phil) Lumpkin has given them great leadership."

Lumpkin's shooting did the Falcons in the first time. He hit 13 of 22 shots and wound up with 27 points.

Bowling Green may be without the services of Brian Scanlan, a junior forward who was decked by the flu Thursday. If Scanlan does not start, it will be Tom Scott.

Muskingum, co-leading the Ohio Conference with Otterbein, has a tough assignment. The Muskies, 6-1 in the league, meet Wooster, 5-2, at home.

Big George Archer Takes Share Of Hawaiian Lead

HONOLULU (AP) — Big George Archer says he's at least a month away from playing good.

"Let's just hope better days are ahead," the 6-foot-6 onetime ranch hand sighed.

But his position—a share of the lead—going into today's second round in the $200,000 Hawaiian Open Golf Tournament, doesn't really reflect his pessimism.

"I've changed everything around, the way I'm hitting the ball off the tee," Archer said. "It was just awful. Now I'm doing the right thing. But I don't feel comfortable. It'll take time. I'm at least a month away from playing the way I want to."

He managed a four-under-par 68 in Thursday's first round to tie youthful Tom Watson and old pro Gay Brewer, who has a habit of winning away from the continental United States, for the lead in this rich event that offers a $40,000 first prize.

Tied at 69, just one stroke back and three under par on the 7,154-yard Waialae Country Club course, were Doug Sanders, Lanny Wadkins, Gibby Gilbert and Takaaki Kono, a 120-pound Japanese.

Arnold Palmer, a 43-year-old master trying to shake persistent putting troubles, defending title-holder Grier

Jones and a half-dozen others were at 70.

Lee Trevino, who scorched the plush layout by the balmy beaches of the Pacific with a 61 in Wednesday's pro-am, slipped to a par 72. He had to birdie the last hole to do that.

Also in the big group at the figure was Australian veteran Bruce Crampton, already the winner of two tour titles this season.

CARROLL RICHTER'S horoscope

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Much discussion with interesting friends and acquaintances is the best way to make this a banner day. Almost everyone's thinking of new ways to get what they want and are also willing to lend a helping hand to those toward whom they have a friendly feeling. Accept the unexpected and be somewhat dramatic.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can easily work out those new ideas with close friends and get the right results now you want. Use diplomacy. Get out to social functions in p.m. that are helpful to you, make you happier.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Show loyalty to those in high position with whom you agree and prove you are a fine citizen. Express those civic ideas you have that can be most helpful. Avoid one who is a big hypocrite.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are able to expand present activities, so make arrangements now to travel, have discussions with others. State your aims clearly. You can take steps that help you live along more lofty lines.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can delve right into all those duties for which you have had little time of late. Show your finest talents to mate and get right results. Avoid some situation that seems dangerous.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan how to reach a better understanding today with associates with whom you have had some recent dispute. You have to be more broadminded to get right results. Try not to get yourself deeply in debt.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Complete work you were unable to finish during busy week and get cooperation of associates or co-workers. A new kind of treatment is fine for improving your health. This could give you a new lease on life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take time out for amusements that will get you out of the slough of despondency today. Bring mate along for best results. You can do some entertaining at home also and show off your nice place.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A good day to spend at home making the improvements there that are necessary and having more comfort, beauty in the future. Do some entertaining in p.m. Bring only congenials together.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Fine day to communicate better with people you like and show them more affection, how much you do admire them. Quickly get those tasks done that you have little time for during busy work week. Think constructively.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Think more about finances now and plan to save more in the future, or get that new project operating that adds to income. Follow your intuitions, since they are accurate. Relax at books in p.m.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get in touch with good friends, exchange ideas, and make better plans for the future. Put more happiness into your life. See what you can do to improve your wardrobe and personal appearance.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Sit down with an expert and make the plans now for the expansion you have in mind for the future. You can take advantage of fine opportunities ahead. Try to please your mate more and really understand this person.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those born humanitarians who will want to help people at large and it would be wise to slant the education along lines of the ministry, medicine, or other service professions, including politics. Permit to have as fine a social life as possible early so your youngster will understand others. A study of psychology, psychiatry would be fine, also. Plan now to pay for the education desirable in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Much discussion with interesting friends and acquaintances is the best way to make this a banner day. Almost everyone's thinking of new ways to get what they want and are also willing to lend a helping hand to those toward whom they have a friendly feeling. Accept the unexpected and be somewhat dramatic.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can easily work out those new ideas with close friends and get the right results now you want. Use diplomacy. Get out to social functions in p.m. that are helpful to you, make you happier.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Show loyalty to those in high position with whom you agree and prove you are a fine citizen. Express those civic ideas you have that can be most helpful. Avoid one who is a big hypocrite.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are able to expand present activities, so make arrangements now to travel, have discussions with others. State your aims clearly. You can take steps that help you live along more lofty lines.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can delve right into all those duties for which you have had little time of late. Show your finest talents to mate and get right results. Avoid some situation that seems dangerous.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan how to reach a better understanding today with associates with whom you have had some recent dispute. You have to be more broadminded to get right results. Try not to get yourself deeply in debt.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Complete work you were unable to finish during busy week and get cooperation of associates or co-workers. A new kind of treatment is fine for improving your health. This could give you a new lease on life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take time out for amusements that will get you out of the slough of despondency today. Bring mate along for best results. You can do some entertaining at home also and show off your nice place.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A good day to spend at home making the improvements there that are necessary and having more comfort, beauty in the future. Do some entertaining in p.m. Bring only congenials together.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Fine day to communicate better with people you like and show them more affection, how much you do admire them. Quickly get those tasks done that you have little time for during busy work week. Think constructively.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Think more about finances now and plan to save more in the future, or get that new project operating that adds to income. Follow your intuitions, since they are accurate. Relax at books in p.m.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get in touch with good friends, exchange ideas, and make better plans for the future. Put more happiness into your life. See what you can do to improve your wardrobe and personal appearance.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Sit down with an expert and make the plans now for the expansion you have in mind for the future. You can take advantage of fine opportunities ahead. Try to please your mate more and really understand this person.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those born humanitarians who will want to help people at large and it would be wise to slant the education along lines of the ministry, medicine, or other service professions, including politics. Permit to have as fine a social life as possible early so your youngster will understand others. A study of psychology, psychiatry would be fine, also. Plan now to pay for the education desirable in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Tom Spring Is LaSertoma's Youth Service Award Recipient

Tom Spring, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Spring, 579 Northridge Rd., has been selected 1973 Youth Service Award winner by the Circleville LaSertoma Club.

Tom, a senior at Circleville High School, is an Eagle Scout, winner of the Scout's God and Country Award, is active in the high school's Key Club, is a member of the English Merit Society, and is an active member of the Trinity Lutheran Church.

The Youth Service Award was adopted by LaSertoma International at their annual convention in 1960. Its principle purposes are to seek out those youths or adults encouraging and aiding youths who are setting a pattern of leadership and service in their local communities; to recognize and reward these efforts with a citation; and to inspire and encourage other youths to emulate these recognized leaders.

TOM SPRING

Past winners of the local award are Miss Nancy May, Miss Nancy Benzenburg, Miss Vicki Fraunfelder, Mrs. Leora Sayre, Miss Mae Johnson, Miss Ellen Tootle, Miss Judy Schein, and Miss Lydia Wilson.

Tom will be honored at the Sertoma-LaSertoma Service-to-Mankind Banquet which will be held Feb. 12 at Wardell Party Home.

Serving on this year's Youth Service Award Committee are Mrs. Larry Lewis, chairman; Mrs. Robert Scranton, Mrs. Robert Parker, Mrs. Larry Mets, and Mrs. Charles Carle, Jr.

New Defense Chief Puzzled By Laos Bombing Secrecy

WASHINGTON (AP) — On his first day as secretary of defense, Elliot L. Richardson asked what many Americans have been asking for years: Why the secrecy surrounding the U.S. air war in Laos?

"I hope to have an answer pretty soon," said Richardson.

The issue was raised Wednesday during Richardson's first news conference, and the secretary replied he had asked that question himself after taking office the previous day.

The new Pentagon chief didn't say to whom his question was directed, but it seemed obvious he was referring to the White House and, more specifically, to the office of presidential adviser Henry Kissinger.

PomonaGrange Meets Saturday Morning

Pickaway County Pomona Grange will hold its winter session, Saturday morning at the fairgrounds. The business session will be directed by Frank Lands, newly installed master of the order.

The meeting will begin at 11 a.m. and will be followed by a luncheon provided by members of Washington Grange.

The afternoon session will include the lecturers program and also the young marrieds baking contest. Plans will be completed for the annual county grange banquet to be held on Feb. 24.

Despite the Vietnam ceasefire, U.S. planes have hit Communist positions in Laos for four consecutive days. All the Pentagon will say is that American aircraft are continuing operations "at the request of the royal Laotian government."

Although Richardson himself indicated he has strong doubts about the long-standing U.S. policy of carrying on bombing of Laos behind a partial cloak of secrecy, it appears unlikely he will be able to remove the wraps without White House consent.

The indication has been that touchy diplomatic considerations involving the Laotian government—which once considered itself neutralist—are responsible for the refusal to talk about U.S. operations there in any detail.

On another matter restricting newsmen, the Pentagon has clamped tight security around the expected return of more than 500 prisoners of war from Southeast Asia.

Despite a Richardson memorandum Wednesday affirming the principle of free flow of information, "to assure that the American people are fully informed about matters of national defense," newsmen are to be barred from interviewing the POWs immediately on their return.

Pentagon spokesmen say their first concern is for the welfare of the men—to speed them through medical checks at Clark Field in the Philippines and return them to their families without delay.
